Keir Starmer is new PM; Expected to keep up good ties with India

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

AFTER sitting on the opposition benches for more than a decade, the Labour Party on Friday stormed to power in the UK, ending 14 years of Conservative rule. Labour leader Keir Starmer assumed charge as the 58th prime minister after his customary audience with King Charles III at Buckingham Palace.

"Our country has voted decisively for change, for national renewal and a return of politics for public service," said Starmer in his inaugural address from a lectern outside 10 Downing Street,the official residence of the British PM.

Starmer, 61, noted that people have become disillusioned and cynical about politics and his priority is to restore their faith in government.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi congratulated Starmer adding that he looks forward to a constructive collaboration to strengthen India-UK relations.

Modi also commented on outgoing prime minister Rishi Sunak's leadership: "Thank you Rishi Sunak for your admirable leadership of the UK, your active contribution to deepen the ties between India and the UK during your term in office."

Accepting defeat, Sunak said he respects the people's mandate. "I have given this job my all. But you all have sent a clear message, and yours is the only judgement that matters. This is a difficult day, but I leave this job honoured to have been the Prime Minister of the best country in the world,'' Sunak said in his resignation speech.

The change of guard in London happens at a time when the free trade agreement (FTA) between India and UK is in the final stages. Starmer has often maintained that he wants good relations with the Modi-led government. The FTA also featured in the party's poll manifesto which stated that they were committed to pursuing a new strategic partnership with India.

Soon after taking charge, Starmer named David Lammy as his foreign secretary. A backer of strong bilateral ties with India, Lammy had said last month that he would be visiting New Delhi within the first month of office, if his party was voted to power. P13

In SC, govt, NTA oppose demand to scrap NEET-UG

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

DAYS before the Supreme Court begins its hearing on petitions seeking the scrapping of the NEET-UG on July 8, the Centre and the National Testing Agency (NTA) on Friday filed separate affidavits opposing its cancellation, arguing it would be counterproductive and seriously jeopardise the efforts of lakhs of honest candidates who took the test.

"Scrapping the exam in its entirety would seriously jeopardise lakhs of honest candidates who attempted the question paper in 2024," the affidavit filed by the Union Ministry of Education said. It said demands for cancellation and the retest based on surmises and conjectures must be rejected.

For its part, the NTA, which conducted the exam, said the entire NEET-UG 2024 was carried out fairly and with due confidentiality without any illegal practices. It sought to rubbish the claim of mass malpractice during the exam, arguing it was "completely unfounded, misleading, and lacks any basis".

"It is submitted that the present case is not a case wherein the entire examination process conducted across 4750 centres in 571 cities (including 14 cities abroad) has suffered systematic failure, as it has not been vitiated by all pervasive factors of unfair means or paper leak etc," the agency said. It added that the alleged irregularities were confined to certain centres in two cities — Patna and Godhra.

The NTA said other individual instances of the alleged use of unfair means are very few and do not have any co-relation with the malpractices referred to by the petitioners.

In all, 63 cases of use of unfair means were reported, and a committee submitted its recommendations for action.

NEET-PG on August 11

The NEET-PG 2024 will be held on August 11 in two shifts, the National Board of Examinations in Medical Sciences announced. Scheduled to be held on June 23, it was put off a day before the exam

Over 20 Agniveers dead within a year of induction

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

On a day the Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi continued to allege that compensation has not been paid to the next of kin of Agniveer Ajay Kumar who died in a landmine blast in J&K in January, it emerged that around 20 Agniveers lost their lives in less than a year of their induction. The first batch of Agniveers joined the Army in August 2023.

Around 18 Agniveers who passed away are from the Army. Most of them died in action or due to some ailment.

The latest is of death by suicide in the Air Force, a first for an Agniveer in the IAF.

Srikant Kumar Chaudhary, 22, allegedly died by suicide while on sentry duty at the Air Force Station in Agra late on Tuesday night. He hailed from UP's Ballia district. A Board of Inquiry has been set up to probe his death.

Incidentally, the first death of an Agniveer within the Army was also by suicide. It had stirred a controversy as a military funeral was not accorded to him since it's the Army's policy not to glorify deaths by suicide.

After Rahul Gandhi alleged in the Lok Sabha that Agniveer Ajay Singh's family wasn't given compensation, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh hit back, saying ₹1 crore compensation is paid to to families of Agniveers who die in the line of duty.

NEW LAWS MAY LEAD TO MORE LITIGATIONS

Advocates say new laws give more powers to the police, which is draconian

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

THE three new enactments - Bharatiya Naagarika Surakshaa Samhithe (BNSS), 2023, Bharathiya Nyay Samhithe (BNS), 2023, and Bharathiya Sakshyaa Adhiniyam (BSA), 2023 - replacing the CrPC, IPC and the Indian Evidence Act, are not only challenging for the advocates, but also to magistrates, judges and the police, opined former advocate-general BV Acharya.

He said the new enactments have only 10-15% changes as compared to old statutes. It could have been done by bringing amendments to existing statutes, with which lawyers, magistrates, judges and the police are well acquainted. Now, they have to keep a chart to know which corresponding Sections in the statutes to apply.

After CrPC came into effect in 1973, the Supreme Court interpreted many Sections till the new enactments came into force. Replacing the existing statutes with new statutes leads to more litigation and complications, he said, adding, "We can't call CrPC a colonial law because it was enacted in 1973. I strongly object to the change of the nomenclature in Hindi, which is against Article 348 of the Constitution, which says that the title of the statute should be in English."

Senior advocate Hasmath Pasha said lawyers should not face any difficulty as the contents of the provisions are "as it is, what it was", except for changes in Sections. As pointed out by Acharya, Pasha too said changes could have been introduced in the previous statues.

He pointed out that there could be an increase in litigation because more power is given to the police. For instance, the police are given 14 days to register a case after conducting preliminary enquiry for the offences with punishment between three and seven years. This will lead to more litigation. The laws should be in the interest of society and not give more powers to the police, he added.

Another advocate, wished not to be named, said lawyers would be under pressure because they would not be able to get relief to the litigants expeditiously due to the procedure to be followed concerning digital evidence. It is practically impossible to get a certificate done on digital evidence from the Forensic Science Laboratory on time, considering its present infrastructure. This will delay the trial, the accused will languish in jail, speedy justice will be a distant dream, and the pendency of cases will increase. It may also lead to corruption to get the report early. Infrastructure including the staff should have been upgraded at all institutions before enacting new laws, he added.

He said advocates will see more litigations since new enactments give more powers to police, concerning search, seizure, arrest and custody, which is draconian. Jails already brimming will get further jampacked because of more undertrials and delays in trials.

Financial advice need of the hour, regulations crucial, says expert

PURAN CHOUDHARY
@Bengaluru

IN the era of advisors, market experts, veteran investors and finflencers (financial influencers), the need for regulations on 'financial advice' being offered by them is more critical than ever. People in the industry said such experts should be regulated under the rules for Certified Financial Planners (CFPs), allowing them to make suggestions and render their expert advice.'

Speaking to TNIE on the sidelines of an event in the city on Friday, Krishan Mishra, CEO, Financial Planning Standards Board India (FPSB), said financial distress is one of the major reasons for suicides in the country. "It should not be taken lightly. Indians don't talk about bad investments. Over 47.1% of professionals have taken personal loans post-pandemic, despite the general incomes going up. One of the reasons could be the accessibility of buy now, pay later. People are not aware of their risk tolerance or how to manage their assets," he explained.

FPSB organised a boot camp along with the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore (IIM-B) for over 300 professionals from financial planning firms. The objective of the organisation through this is to allow companies to have the right kind of compliance and ensure that citizens get correct advice for their investment, tailored to their goals. "Supporting the efforts of SEBI (Securities and Exchange Board of India), we want to give certifications to credible individuals with enough knowledge and background in financial planning. These CFPs can develop a scientific plan," Mishra emphasised.

Currently, the company has 2,731 CFPs in the country and a total of 223,770 globally. In the next five years FPSB is looking at adding 10,000 more to this pool, said the CEO.

On the upcoming Union Budget that affects every household, he said the government should make sure the categories are easy to understand for all, and the finance minister must urge everyone to have a budget of their own. "In India, less than 5 per cent of Indians prepare their budget. The general perception is that budgets are for companies or organisations. But my advice to every Indian is when the Union Budget is out and whatever the changes may be, everyone should at least have a one-page budget for themselves," the CEO said.

Contractors' bills will be cleared, says BBMP chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the BBMP Contractors' Association deciding to halt all ongoing works in the city due to nonclearance of pending bills, BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath held a meeting with the representatives of the association and assured them of fulfilling their demands, on Friday.

It is learnt that the chief commissioner told the contractors that he would discuss with Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also the minister for Bengaluru Development, and officials of the Urban Development Department, and resolve the issue.

Though the BBMP chief has assured them of resolving the issue, the contractors have not yet rolled back their decision and are awaiting the response from the DCM. While the amount of the pending bills is about Rs 1,700 crore, they are demanding that the BBMP should clear the bills for at least 10 months.

On July 3, the BBMP Contractors' Association had announced that they will stop the works of all ongoing projects across the city from July 8, as the bills for the works done from April 2022 to April 2024 were not yet cleared by the civic agency.

The association president, GM Nandakumar, had written to the chief engineers of all eight zones informing them about the decision of the association.

MLC wants grade separator on Hosur Road

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MLC HS Gopinath has written to Union Minister of Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari to approve the construction of an underpass or overpass for local traffic to avoid highway traffic on the high-density, Bengaluru-Hosur National Highway-44.

The MLC stated that the stretch sees over one lakh passenger car units (PCU) per day. Between Electronic City and Attibele on the Karnataka-Tamil Nadu border, the stretch lacks proper infrastructure, including grade separators, leading to accidents. He said though representations have been made to the NHAI for the construction of grade separators, nothing has been done.

"For the last three years, the NHAI officials have been saying that the proposal has been sent and they are waiting for approval. There is a lot of public anger because of inadequate infrastructure, despite paying a toll. The toll is being collected for the last 20 years and yet the problems have not been addressed," he stated.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

06th July: What will we find when we finally travel to the stars? For many centuries, perhaps for thousands of years, human beings have dreamt of voyaging to the stars and meeting the gods - or God. Some philosophers, though, think that, in a manner of speaking, when we finally arrive at distant worlds, we will meet - ourselves!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Physical passions are raised, financial fears are stirred, and you may wonder just what you are supposed to do. One way out of an impasse is to be thoroughly saintly and hang on to spiritual truths - without being pompous, of course! When you begin to see the world through different eyes then all those old problems may just disappear.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Lock horns with other people if you must, but realise that there are a number of escape routes. Legal guarantees could give satisfaction, for example, as could some sort of journey or long-distance adventure. You should stick to a high moral tone, though.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
A spot of hard work never did anyone any harm, and seeing as it looks as if partners' interests must come first, it may be that you have to provide valuable support to others. You may even be out rattling the collection tin! But you've got to give people a very good reason as to why they should support you.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
It's all too easy to look on the gloomy side and magnify your problems, but if you cultivate such qualities as enthusiasm and optimism, and then go all out to pamper yourself, you will lift your spirits and do yourself a power of good. By the way, you can also expect news from afar at any moment.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
You must maintain the delicate balance between home and work, between your interests and others', and between private needs and public duty. This is not the easiest of tasks and a fair amount of self-discipline is required if you are to curb your instincts.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
If there's a problem in your romantic life it's that your aspirations are too high. You dream of the purest, most noble love, but you're in danger of losing touch with reality! Counter this influence by trying to understand what partners need and want.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
There are emotional complications aplenty, and you may be slightly uncertain about the future, but what stands out in your chart now is the need to deal properly with large domestic purchases and family finances. Plus, someone who you always thought was a rival might soon become a generous supporter.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
This is one of the most important days of the year for you, and even if the skies don't open today, and the earth doesn't shake, a whole raft of desires and activities will reach a turning point, taking you through to the rest of the year with a much deeper sense of your destiny and purpose.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If you are overworked, under-rewarded and thoroughly confused, then you are exactly in tune with today's powerful planetary aspects. Out of such feelings should come the resolve to make drastic improvements, and the determination never to repeat old mistakes.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Social influences are volatile, and while you may meet people who seem at first to be soul-mates, there is a chance that your mood could swing from one extreme to another. You should take responsibility for your own feelings - and never pin the blame on innocent people.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's doubtful that you'll have much time off. When leisure activities are scheduled, you should compete to the full, aiming to win, even if it's only a question of surpassing your own past best. You'll be coming up with unusual ideas, but your task is to put them into practice - otherwise you might just be wasting your time.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You are likely to interpret minor emotional glitches as an opportunity for a personal adventure. One way or another, your analysis could be correct! But will friends and family members listen to you? Well, they just might - if you choose your words with care.

No role in Renukaswamy case: Former Bengaluru Dy Mayor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CONTINUING their probe into the murder of 33-year-old S Renukaswamy of Chitradurga, the police issued notices to three persons, including former Bengaluru Deputy Mayor CS Rammohan Raju.

Raju has been issued a second notice, based on the statements given by jailed actor Darshan. During mahazar at Darshan's RR Nagar house, the police had recovered around ₹40 lakh in cash, which was allegedly given by Raju, a former BJP corporator of Bommanahalli ward. Two other notices have been issued to a friend of Accused Number 1 Pavithra Gowda and to the friend of another accused, Pradosh.

Responding to the notice, Raju appeared and gave his statement. The police summoned him to ask why money was given to Darshan, and about its source. Raju, after meeting the investigators at Basaweshwaranagar police station, said he has answered all the questions. "I had taken money from Darshan and returned it. This must be the money recovered by the police from his house. I have no role in the incident," he added.

Pavithra's friend Samatha has also been issued notice, as she is said to have monetarily helped one of the accused, who surrendered before the Kamakshipalya police on June 10. Another notice has been given to a person identified as Karthik Purohit, a friend of Pradosh. Karthik is said to have accompanied Pradosh during the incident. Karthik, who is an MLA's driver, is absconding. All three have been told to record their statements at the Basaveshwaranagar police station.

The police are also in the process of making Darshan's house helps witnesses in the case. Babul Khan, Amir Khan and Susheelamma work at the actor's house. The staff of a pub will also be made witnesses. On the day of the incident, Darshan was reportedly in the pub located in RR Nagar, partying with his friends.

3-year-old sexually assaulted by female teacher, say her parents

They say daughter cried 'Ma'am did a bad touch'; case registered

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A three-year-old girl is said to have been sexually assaulted by her female school teacher. The incident occurred at a private school in Anwar Layout in KG Halli police station limits in the city.

The victim is said to have started crying while attending nature's call and even while passing motion.

When asked by her mother, she started saying 'ma'am' did a bad touch. The victim was taught about good touch and bad touch by her mother. The accused teacher is said to have been repeatedly hurting the girl with her fingers. The parents, after seeing injuries in the private parts of their daughter, took her to hospital.

The complainant is the girl's 27-year-old father residing at Venkateshpura in KG Halli. The girl's father is a butcher, while the mother is a homemaker. The girl, a nursery student, is said to be going to the school since June 6.

"Some ten days after attending school, she refused to go, telling her mother that she has a severe pain in her private parts. But the parents did not take it seriously. On Wednesday, the girl went to school in the morning around 9.30 and returned home at 12.30 pm. Around 2 pm, she started crying in pain, unable to attend nature's call. When she was asked about the teacher's name, the victim only said it was a 'ma'am' as she did not know the name. She was immediately taken to a private hospital in Frazer Town. The victim was later treated as an outpatient at Vanivilas Hospital," said the police, referring to the complaint.

The father has provided medical treatment records to the police. They show that the girl was taken to the hospital at 6 pm on Wednesday. As it was a medico-legal case, the hospital reported it to the police. The complaint was registered early on Thursday.

"We are verifying the claims made by the complainant. The 50-year-old teacher against whom the allegations are levelled is cooperating in the investigations and is claiming innocence. The case is still under investigation," said the police. A case under different sections of POCSO Act has been registered against the teacher.

Flyer from Dubai in dock for smuggling 1.1 kg gold in underwear

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

AIRPORTS Customs officials have foiled a bid by a 23-year-old Bengalurean to smuggle 1.1 kg of gold from Dubai to Bengaluru on Wednesday by concealing them in semi-solid paste form inside one of the two underwears he was wearing.

An Emirates airline staffer, who connived in the venture by collecting it from the flyer and concealing in inside a pantry in the airport, has been suspended.

Both men have been arrested and booked, said Customs sources. The value of the 1092.5 gm of smuggled gold stands at over Rs 77. 57 lakh.

The smuggler (name withheld by Customs) resides in Bommanahalli and had travelled abroad for the first time, said a Customs source. "He had arrived by EK 566 from Dubai to Terminal 2 of Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) on July 3. After the Immigration clearance, he passed through the Green Channel. His behaviour was very suspicious and based on spot profiling, officials detained him," said a source.

The passenger was subjected to advanced frisking and he was found to be wearing two underwears, which appeared to have special pouches inside. "He was subjected to further questioning by officials when he admitted that he had smuggled the gold by concealing them inside the lining of the blue underwear he was wearing. The semi-solid paste gold was kept in two rectangular white-taped packets inside a specially designed pouch inside the lining," the source explained.

He confessed that he had handed it over to an Emirates employee as soon as he alighted from the aero bridge.

The 48-year-old employee, was involved in taking care of the ramp and other aspects after passengers alight. Another source said, "The passenger did not know the name of the airline employee but remembered he sported a French beard."

Customs officials summoned a few airline employees on duty on Wednesday and the passenger identified his partner in crime. "The employee confessed he had collected the gold and stored it under a water cooler in a small pantry located near the Emirates office on the first floor of the airport. Officials took him to the spot and seized the gold."

The employee had worked with Emirates for over two decades and has a clean record, he source added.

The passenger said he had travelled to Dubai for a holiday and it was his first trip abroad. He also claimed he working as a delivery executive. However, he had no employee identity documents.

"His passport though was a fresh one it could be his maiden trip," he added.

Both have been arrested and a case booked under the Customs Act.

WAR OF WORDS OVER MUDA RAGES ON

Scam exposed by person eyeing CM's post: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

UNION Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel HD Kumaraswamy has said that the alleged scam in Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) site allotment was exposed by a person eyeing the Chief Minister's post for political gains, indirectly referring to DyCM and KPCC president DK Shivakumar.

Speaking to the media after offering puja at the Chamundeshwari Temple atop Chamundi Hills in Mysuru, the former CM, while referring to the Hassan sex video scandal, said that the CD factory has been closed and the MUDA factory was open now.

"I have all the information regarding the scam. I also know how Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife got possession of the land. The CM, who has sought Rs 62 crore compensation, must also ensure that the farmers whose land has been acquired and awaiting relief must also get similar compensation," he said.

Kumaraswamy accused the State Government of vindictive politics in connection with his janata darshan held in Mandya on Friday. "The CM has discussed janata darshan in the Cabinet. They can keep government servants away from me, but they cannot keep people away from me. Did the officers not attend the Parliament members Jana Spandana in the run-up to the Lok Sabha elections?" the JDS leader said, adding that it is impossible for the State Government to stop his janata darshans.

SIDDU BLACKMAILING OWN GOVT: BJP MP

BENGALURU: CM Siddaramaiah, who says he does not fear anything, should not be afraid to hand over the MUDA case to the CBI or some independent agency, BJP MP Lahar Singh Siroya has said. "There is probably no CM in the entire nation, past or present, who has adopted a tone that sounds like blackmail against his own government. He has demanded a hefty compensation of Rs 62 crore from the government that he himself runs, to surrender questionably acquired land in the possession of his family. It is a very sad and rather brazen attitude. It completely exposes the mindset of the CM who never misses an opportunity to tell us how great a Lohia-Socialist he is, and how transparent he has always been," Siroya said.

DKS: Have no role, HDK is 'mentally unsound'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Friday lashed out at Union Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel HD Kumaraswamy over the latter's allegations that he had a role in exposing the MUDA scam.

Shivakumar said that Kumarswamy was "mentally unstable".

Speaking to the media in Vidhana Soudha, Shivakumar said, "Kumaraswamy's allegations that I have a hand in the MUDA scam (getting exposed) is baseless. He has lost his mental balance and he is badly in need of treatment."

On the JDS leader's remark that the CD factory has been closed and the MUDA factory opened, Shivakumar, who is also the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president, said, "Some people can't sleep peacefully or think straight if they don't take my name."

Asked about Kumaraswamy's allegation that the State Government had issued an instruction to government officials to not participate in his janata darshan in Mandya, Shivakumar suggested saying, "Officials follow certain protocols. They know what needs to be done. Can I go to Delhi and use officials in Delhi? I don't know much about his janata darshan. I don't have anything to do with it."

CONG TRANSFERRED MYSURU DC TO HUSH UP SCAM: BJP

BENGALURU: BJP leaders have slammed the Congress for transferring Mysuru Deputy Commissioner KV Rajendra, who played an important role in exposing the MUDA site allotment scam. State BJP president BY Vijayendra said the government transferred Rajendra, fearing that the role of some more leaders from the ruling Congress would come to light in the scam. Rajendra was among the 21 IAS officers transferred and posted as director of tourism in Bengaluru. LoP R Ashoka said Rajendra sought details regarding the process followed to allot sites for the land acquired for formation of residential layouts. However, the MUDA did not bother to respond to his request. Vijayendra said if the government was honest, it wouldn't have transferred Rajendra, but asked him to be part of the investigation.

NO SCAM, REITERATES MINISTER BYRATHI SURESH

MYSURU: Urban Development Minister Byrathi Suresh denied any irregularities in MUDA. He said that there is no need for a CBI probe as demanded by the BJP as officers are conducting an inquiry into the allegations. "Where is the scam? Has it been proved?" he shot back. Speaking to the media in Chamarajanagar, Suresh said that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has already made a statement in this regard. He said that two IAS officers are looking into whether the sites are given to land loser farmers or to private parties. He accused the BJP of making baseless charges and said the officers were given four weeks to submit the report. Suresh also lashed out at BJP MLC A H Vishwanath for his comments and charged that he along with son had approached him requesting for allotment of sites.

MY TAKE

'Elusive' by another name is 'footpath' in Namma Bengaluru

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

IN all the repertories of urban development mechanisms, one persisting mystery about Bengaluru baffles all. Most parts of the city – which is firmly on the global map for reasons linked to business, tourism and medical services – have no footpaths. And where there is indeed a semblance of footpaths, they are in a poor condition, encroached without fear of the law, or claimed by motorists as extensions of roads. In the background, enforcement remains conspicuous by its absence.

In fact, the lack of enforcement to ensure that footpaths are clear for pedestrians to walk safely is so striking that on rare occasions when authorities do crack their whips, it turns into a dramatic show begging for public appreciation.

What is equally baffling is the poor understanding – or the lack of it – about the importance of footpaths. While urban mobility models indicate increasing use of public transport, cycling and walking rather than using private vehicles, footpaths are given a short shrift despite their crucial potential in promoting that very aim.

That we lack understanding about the importance of safe footpaths is visually evident in the upmarket Sadashivnagar neighbourhood. The residences of the high and mighty – be they from the political, business or the celebrity class – commonly have encroached footpaths right outside their lavishly structured houses.

Why just Sadashivnagar, most existing footpaths across Bengaluru are either encroached or uneven; worse, some have gaping holes, threatening to swallow an entire human of any shape or size.

Barring the Central Business District and a few areas in Bengaluru, the city has no signs of anything coming close to being defined as a "footpath". The result: children, elders and the specially-abled are forced onto the roads, facing the risk of being mowed down by speeding vehicles. The motorists, on their part, anyways use footpaths as parking lots or as means to overtake others. In that attempt, the threat of running down some unsuspecting biped struggling to navigate the footpath, remains.

A recent study conducted by an association working for social and ecological justice, Action Aid (India), titled 'On Foot: A Study on Safety and Risk Assessment of Child Pedestrians', conducted from Vinobha Nagar to Karnataka Public School, VV Puram, from August to November 2023, showed that children walking to the school were not safe. Two routes for children going to the school were marked from Vinobha Nagar to JC Main Road and along JC Road to Minerva Circle. The study found nine construction debris sites, 12 spots where vehicles were parked on footpaths, six footpath encroachments because of commercial establishments, nine litter accumulation spots, 14 locations lacking features on footpaths, five locations of inaccessible footpaths, four locations where junction boxes of Bangalore Electricity Supply Company were placed and six locations without zebra crossings. The study noted that children usually walked in groups, along with friends or siblings, a minimum distance of 700-900 metres with their school bags. Imagine the constant threat that these children are exposed to while on their way to school and back.

Think about the senior citizens. They are even more threatened. There is no need for anyone else to harm them. The condition of the footpaths is enough. They just need to trip, break a few brittle bones, and if alive, enter the world of medical complications. Bad footpaths are potentially good business for hospitals and orthopaedic experts!

Lack of footpaths is good business for chain-snatchers, too. Most chain-snatching cases have occurred when victims have been walking on the roads without footpaths, or because of poor footpaths. And the perpetrators are commonly on two-wheelers, making easy pickings of the unsuspecting victims, who are mostly women. Wonder whether the law & order police have observed and reported this to the state government to highlight the importance of laying good, safe footpaths that are barricaded as much as possible.

Think about the physically challenged. Look at the Bengaluru footpaths, wherever they do exist. Most of them are not wheelchair-friendly, and what's worse is that they only threaten to add to the numbers of the physically challenged.

There is still scope for the state government, ruled by Congress, to provide a sixth guarantee – footpaths, of course – after the five they made to win the assembly polls last year. Of what use are the five guarantees if poor footpaths – or the lack of them – threaten to compromise them in the bargain? They talk of a threat to the Indian Constitution, but without thinking of how poor, or absent, footpaths obstruct freedom of movement. It's time to think, if they haven't yet started to do so. If they have, then it's time to act!

THE BJP has decided to constitute three committees, each headed by a senior legislator, to conduct a ground survey to shortlist candidates for the Assembly bypolls to Shiggaon, Channapatna and Sandur. Shiggaon, Channapatna and Sandur seats fell vacant after the incumbent MLAs Basavaraj Bommai, HD Kumaraswamy and E Tukaram, respectively, won the recent Lok Sabha polls.

₹39K cr action plan for SCSP/TSP approved

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE action plan for the Scheduled Caste Sub Plan (SCSP) and the Tribal Sub Plan (TSP), with an allocation of Rs 39,121.46 crore for 2024-25, was approved by the State Government on Friday. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah told reporters that the priority is to bring change in the lives of the oppressed class people and action will be taken against those who fail to utilise the SCSP/TSP funds. The Opposition BJP, however, accused the State Government of diverting the funds for its guarantee schemes.

The CM said under SCSP, Rs 27,673.96 crore has been provided, and Rs. 11,447.50 crore has been provided under TSP. He said the plans ensure the allocation of a budget in proportion to the population of SCs/STs in the states and Prime Minister Narendra Modi has been urged many times to frame a law on the model of Karnataka. The CM said the amount is spent for only those communities, including through the guarantee schemes as the beneficiaries are also from SCs/STs. He said they have fixed allocation for each department. In this year's action plan, the Women and Child Welfare Department has been provided Rs 8,480 crore, the Energy Department Rs 5,026 crore, the Social Welfare Department Rs 4,174 crore, the Revenue Department Rs 3,403 crore, and the Rural Development Department Rs 3,163 crore. The CM said they have directed the officers to ensure that the grant should not lapse without being used for any reason and it has to be spent in the same year. Last year, of the Rs 35,221.84 crore allotted, 97.23 percent was spent and 99.64 percent achievement was recorded against release, according to a statement from the CM's office. It is estimated that Rs. 1,320 crore can be saved under SCSP/TSP in various departments and these funds will be reallocated to departments with deficits.

The state's total development budget is Rs. 1,60,000 crore, with this Rs. 39,121.46 crore allocated to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes across various departments and it is a Rs. 3,900 crore increase from last year, the statement said. The CM said a residential school will be established in each hobli, with 25% of seats for outsiders and 75% for locals. The implementation of SCSP/TSP schemes and guarantee schemes will be evaluated to understand the social and economic improvement of SC/ST beneficiaries. SCSP/TSP schemes' progress will be reviewed after three months. On the impact and utilization of the funds, the CM said random evaluation showed that 65 % improvement, and a door-to-door study will be done to ascertain the details.

LoP in the Assembly R Ashoka said SCSP and TSP funds meant for the welfare of those communities are diverted for the guarantees.

More grants for SC/ST UPSC aspirants in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government on Friday decided to increase financial assistance to Scheduled Castes (SC) and Scheduled Tribes (ST) students from Karnataka who are preparing for the civil services examination in New Delhi, from Rs 10,000 to Rs 15,000 per month. Speaking to the media after a meeting to approve the action plan for Rs 39,121.46 crore for the Scheduled Caste Sub Plan (SCSP) and the Tribal Sub Plan (TSP) for 2024-25, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said that his government would give Rs 15,000 to the students and the order will be issued soon.

He said 70 students from Karnataka are in New Delhi preparing for the civil services exam for IAS, IPS, IRS, and other services.

"They informed me that Rs 10,000 (per month) is not sufficient. They do not get accommodation. We will give them Rs 15,000 every month. We have also decided to construct a hostel and provide a good quality library. This year, we will look for a place and start the work," the CM said.

A senior officer said a stipend will be given to those who clear the exam conducted by the Social Welfare Department and go to New Delhi for coaching for the civil services exam. They will get the stipend for nine months. The amount will be increased from Rs 10,000 to Rs 15,000 from next month.

No state officials at Janata Darshan: HDK slams govt

ENS @Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy on Friday held a Janata Darshan in his parliamentary constituency of Mandya for over six-seven hours, and received petitions from thousands of people. He alleged that the state government ensured that none of the officials attended the event. He said a circular had been issued and the issue was discussed at the cabinet meeting to stop officials from attending the Janata Darshan.

Congress Mandya MLA Ganiga Ravi said, "The state government did not pass any such circular. When Kumaraswamy was CM in the Congress-JDS government, he had resisted BJP, which was in opposition, from holding a Janata Darshan. His ploy now a political gimmick."

A political observer said Kumaraswamy receiving so many petitions means that the state government needs to wake up. Political analyst BS Murthy said, "This is a way of getting political attention. It also helps motivate the cadres." Ganiga Ravi and District Minister Cheluvarayaswamy will hold a Janata Darshan in Keragodu on Saturday.

PATIL said the artisans have been getting concessions for their stalls at key locations. Steps have been taken to encourage them to participate in the national-level 'haat' event to showcase and sell their products.

Officials from the Commerce and Industries Department said the move to offer loans on 4% interest towards working capital will help reduce the financial burden on artisans. The affordable credit plan will help artisans manage their cash flow, purchase raw material, and invest in upgrading their products. An official said the 10% MDA on turnover of handicraft products will help artisans get financial support that directly correlates with their sales. This assistance can be used for marketing and promoting their products, enabling them to reach broader markets. MDA also encourages artisans to enhance the quality and appeal of their products to boost turnover and receive higher assistance.

Patil said to support and encourage women entrepreneurs, the revamped policy will provide them many specific incentives, including 5% land allotment by Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board (KIADB) and Karnataka State Small Industries Development Corporation (KSSIDC). In addition, women-led MSMEs will benefit from a 5% additional investment promotion subsidy across all categories and a 10% subsidy for micro and small industries in urban areas. They will also be provided extended benefits such as an additional one to four years of electricity tariff exemption, a technology adoption subsidy covering up to 50% of costs, and a 50% subsidy for technology business incubation centres.

Patil said as part of the Global Investors' Meet '25, Karnataka will organise 'SME Connect '25 vendor development conclave' to connect MSMEs with potential buyers within the dedicated clusters.

"The objective is to facilitate business and industry collaboration by providing a platform for local manufacturers to showcase their products and connect with potential buyers. Through this initiative, the state aims to integrate local resources and indigenous products with new investments and projects, ensuring that local businesses play a vital role in Karnataka's economic growth," he said. Patil said comprehensive training and upskilling programmes will be organised for MSMEs, including on Industry 4.0 technologies, to ensure that industrial growth is inclusive, benefiting rural areas and promoting overall economic development of the state.

Don't slip & slide, beautiful waterfalls in K'taka can be beasts too

TEAM TNIE

INCESSANT rain pounding Malnad and coastal Karnataka regions has revived almost all the waterfalls, and the forest and tourism departments have banned entry of tourists to most of these places, especially in Shivamogga district, as these cascades are situated deep inside the forests.

The recent incident of a family drowning in Lonavala in Maharashtra and several tourists getting washed away in waterfalls in Karnataka over the last few years too have made the forest department to decide on banning visitors to these waterfalls,

At most of these spots, there is no proper supervision either by the police or forest department authorities and this could lead to tragedies, the authorities have warned.

Shivamogga district has Dabbe waterfalls near Hosagadde in Sagar taluk, Hidlumane, Barkana and Onake Abbey in Agumbe, Kunchikal falls in Nidigodu village of Agumbe and Jogi Gundi falls.

"Our tourist mitra or security personnel are deployed only at identified tourist spots. We don't have dedicated staff at waterfalls that come alive only during the rainy season," said T Dharmappa, Assistant Director, Tourism Department.

Some waterfalls in Shivamogga district come under the Mookambika forest range, while some others in Agumbe.

Sivaram Babu, Deputy Conservator of Forests, Kudremukh Wildlife Division, Karkala, issued an order on July 1, barring the entry of tourists to waterfalls and other tourist places inside forests temporarily in view of heavy rain.

The Gokak Falls in its full splendour on Friday as Ghataprabha river swells following heavy rain in Belagavi district | EXPRESS

"There is now a high chance of a large number of tourists visiting waterfalls. As a precautionary measure, we have barred the entry of visitors to Bandaje waterfalls in Belthangady, Arasinagundi, Kudlu, Barkala, Hidlumane, Vanakabbi waterfalls in Kudremukh, Someshwar, Agumbe, Siddapura, Kollur Kerekatte and Karkala wildlife sub-divisions and forest ranges," he said.

The department has also restricted the entry of tourists to Narasimhagada-Gadaikallu, which is a historic place at Belthangady. "We have put up warning boards barring the entry of tourists at these places," he said.

Kudlu Theertha in Hebri taluk, Hidlumane in Kollur and Belkal Theertha, which is near Kollur, are the three major waterfalls in Mangaluru district and the entry has been banned to these, and other smaller waterfalls too, he added.

DFO Shivaram Babu said the ban will be in effect till the rain recedes in the Western Ghats. "These waterfalls could be dangerous when it is raining heavily. Tourists should not venture into these areas and try any misadventure," he cautioned.

In Chikkamagaluru district, too, many prominent waterfalls are roaring again. Hebbe, Kallatti Cascade, Manikyadhra, Shanthi, Kudre Abbey near Khandaya, Sirimane near Kigga in Sringeri taluk, Shankar near Aldur and Hanumana Gundi in Kudremukh region are some of the prominent waterfalls that are now flowing in full glory.

Tourism Department officials told TNIE that as most of these waterfalls are on the roadside, there is no need to panic and tourists can enjoy their beauty with enough safety.

DFO Ramesh Babu said forest watchers have been appointed on the Charmady Ghat road to prevent youngsters from indulging in dangerous activities. Over the last few years, the selfie craze has claimed some lives, he pointed out.

Trekking to Ettian Bhuja and Mullayyanagiri too has been banned by the administration. "After the Lonavala incident, we are on high alert, but have not imposed any restrictions as most of the waterfalls are on the roadside," he added.

On Jog Falls, Dharmappa said, "It is a well-developed tourist spot. There is always a vigil kept by the police and tourism department staff. CCTV cameras too have been installed to avoid any untoward incidents. But tourists are advised not to go on any adventurous activities. Visit the falls and enjoy its beauty, but don't risk your precious life."

Bail AP out of its financial misery, Naidu urges Centre

Andhra Pradesh's debt rate reached 33.32% of GSDP in 2023 - 24

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

ANDHRA Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Friday sought the Centre to bail out Andhra Pradesh from the precarious financial condition it is in, owing to the inefficient governance of the previous YSRC government.

On the second day of his visit to the national capital, Naidu met several Union Ministers and discussed the issues related to the state.

During his meeting with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, he appealed her to come to the state's rescue.

Saying that the debt rate of the state has reached to 33.32 per cent of the GSDP in 2023 - 2024, he said that the debts were 31.02% in the GSDP in 2019 - 20. Responding positively, Nirmala assured to extend the possible financial aid.

He also sought hand holding from the Centre till Andhra Pradesh finances improved and support in terms of additional borrowing space to meet the accrued debt service obligations following the bifurcation.

Besides appealing her to provide for a 90% grant component in Central government schemes, covering but not limited to micro irrigation, drinking water, irrigation, horticulture, etc., Naidu also asked the Centre for early approval of funds for completion of Polavaram national irrigation project. He also wanted assistance for development of Amaravati, and to provide incentives for industrial development in the State.

During the discussion with Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Naidu sought creation of a defence industry related ecosystem in Andhra Pradesh to give impetus to the industrial growth of the state.

Mahadayi inspection will expose K'taka: Sawant

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

WHILE the Progressive River Authority for Water and Harmony (PRAWAH) of the Union Government is set to inspect the project sites of Kalasa-Banduri on July 7 at Kankumbi, Goa Chief Minister Pramod Sawant issued a strong statement on Friday claiming that the inspection will expose the illegal diversion of water to Malaprabha basin and the wrongdoings of Karnataka government with regard to Mahadayi project.

Sawant welcomed the PRAWAH inspection during monsoon stating that it was the right time to understand the flow and diversion of water (at Kalasa Banduri project sites).

Speaking to a section of media in Panaji on Friday, Sawant said, "Let Karnataka approach the PM for the project clearance. We (Goa) have already made a case before the Prime Minister, highlighting the importance of the Mahadayi river to Goa.''

Sawant said his government would put the facts of water diversion with proof before the Supreme Court as the matter was listed for August.

Meanwhile, several organisations in Belagavi have questioned the need for the inspection of PRAWAH at a time when Mahadayi Water Dispute Tribunal (MWDT) has already pronounced its award and the Supreme Court subsequently issued orders for sharing of water as per the tribunal's order.

As to why the Goa government is keen on getting PRAWAH to visit the project sites on the border is that it is under the impression that the State Government is taking up various works under the Mahadayi project in violation of the tribunal's orders, said Ashok Chandargi, chairman, Kannada Organisations Action Committee.

He said that the Karnataka government is waiting for environment and wildlife permission to go ahead with the Kalasa-Banduri project. "When that was the fact, the State Government should have prevented the visit of PRAWAH to the project sites. Goa feels it could halt Karnataka from diverting the Mahadayi water by showing PRAWAH to take note of the works, which it claimed were taken up at the Kalasa-Banduri project sites, illegally by Karnataka," he said.

Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Water Resources Minister DK Shivakumar and officials concerned should bring the actual state of things with regard to the Mahadayi project to the notice of PRAWAH when the latter holds a meeting in Bengaluru on July 8, Chandargi said.

The Kannada organisations have alleged that the Goa government was trying to put pressure on various departments at the Centre in an attempt to prevent the implementation of Mahadayi project. For the past six years, Goa has been objecting to the project even as the MWDT has awarded 13 tmcft share of water to Karnataka, the organisations added.

Madras High Court questions ₹10L aid to kin of hooch victims

Chennai: Terming the compensation of `10 lakh each to the families of hooch tragedy victims as 'huge', Madras HC questioned the rationale behind providing such relief aid. The first bench of Acting Chief Justice R Mahadevan and Justice Mohammed Shaffiq raised the question when a PIL filed by Mohamed Ghouse came for hearing. "How can you give a huge amount of `10 lakh compensation to each of the families of the hooch tragedy victims," the bench asked.

TV channel CEO targets spa owner for money, held

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 52-year-old CEO of a vernacular news channel has been arrested for allegedly trying to extort money from a well-known spa on Indiranagar 100 Feet Road. The complaint was filed by the manager of the spa.

The accused CEO, R Venkatesh, is a Rajanukunte resident. He was arrested by the Jeevan Bima Nagar police on the complaint filed by H Shivashankar on Monday. After the arrest, the police took him into custody for two-day police custody. He is now remanded in judicial custody.

"On June 21, a woman from a North Eastern state approached the spa seeking a job. She was hired on trial for 10 days. On June 26, a person identified as Sandesh reportedly booked a slot for jacuzzi massage.

As the new recruit was on trial, she was sent for the massage. After a 90-minute massage, Sandesh is said to have left paying Rs 7,500. Shockingly, the woman who massaged him stopped coming to work and had even switched off her mobile phone. The next day, three persons including a girl holding the channel's mike entered the spa and asked for the owners or the manager. When the complainant introduced himself as the manager, they gave him the phone to talk to their CEO.

The CEO then sent an explicit video of Sandesh and the woman from North East, claiming that the spa was running a prostitution racket, and demanded Rs 15 lakh. The manager refused to give the money. The spa manager filed the complaint on Monday and the CEO was arrested, said an officer part of the investigation.

GIRL'S SUICIDE

HC refuses to quash case against teachers

ENS @ Bengaluru

REFUSING to quash criminal proceedings against two teachers for allegedly driving a 15-year-old girl to suicide by spreading rumours among her fellow students that she was talking to a boy and threatening her with making public an alleged video of kissing him, the Karnataka High Court said a need has arisen for all pedagogues to ponder over the manner in which they want to enforce discipline among students.

The accused -- drawing teacher Roopesha and physical training teacher Sadananda -- were working at a high school in Dharmasthala police limits in Dakshina Kannada district. They have been booked under provisions of the IPC, Pocso Act and Juvenile Justice Act based on a complaint filed by the victim's mother.

Justice M Nagaprasanna on Friday rejected their petition challenging the proceedings. "A perusal of the complaint or the statement of the victim just before her death shocks the conscience of the court, and as to what discipline the petitioners wanted to inculcate is indeed a mystery. All these problems sprung, in the considered view of the court, due to the parochial and myopic mindset of the petitioners... If only the teachers had dealt with the child in a manner appropriate, the precious life of the child would not have been lost", the court said.

TN BSP chief hacked to death by gang of six

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

K ARMSTRONG (52), Tamil Nadu state president of the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), was hacked to death by an unidentified six-member gang, dressed as food delivery executives, near Sembium in Chennai's Perambur on Friday evening.

He was rushed to a private hospital on Greams Road, where the doctors declared him dead. The body was then sent to Rajiv Gandhi Government General Hospital for an autopsy. At least 10 special teams have been formed by the Greater Chennai Police to trace and nab the suspects. Two associates of Armstrong, who were near him, sustained injuries and are under treatment.

According to police, Armstrong, along with a few of his party cadres, was overseeing construction work of a building at Venugopal Street in Sembium at around 7pm when the six-member gang came in two bikes and surrounded him. They allegedly hacked him with knives and machetes and fled, leaving Armstrong in a pool of blood. The weapons were left behind at the crime scene, said police.

Police registered a case and are analysing CCTV footage to identify suspects. They are also checking Armstrong's mobile phone records. Soon after the incident, Deputy Commissioner of Pulianthope I Eswaran and Assistant Commissioner Praveen Kumar went to the spot and conducted inquiries.

3 yrs after man's death, wife yet to get Covid compensation

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

A Rs 1 lakh cheque, which was the compensation paid by the state government to a Covid victim's wife, has not been encashed even after three years because of a clerical error.

Santosh Eshwar Soundatte (40), a private transport contractor, was diagnosed Covid-positive in April-May 2021. He suffered for over 30 days and was shifted to four different hospitals. Finally, he was admitted at Srinivas Hospital in Bengaluru, where he was an in-patient for ten days before passing away.

For his traumatised wife Ashwini Soundatte, what followed was a painful ordeal. She received the cheque towards compensation, bearing number 590773, from the government in December 2022. The then BJP government had announced Rs 1 lakh relief to the kin of Covid patients, who had passed away.

Ashwini submitted the cheque at her bank and waited for the money to be credited into her account. But a few days later, she learnt that it had not been honoured. The reason was that the financial instrument had her name as "Ashwin" instead of "Ashwini", with the 'I' conspicuously missing.

She did not know then that it would take years and multiple visits to government offices to add an 'I" to the cheque. She told TNIE, "I visited the tahsildar's office in Anekal twice and the DC's office in Bengaluru four times between 2022 and 2024. I also called them a number of times. Each time, the officials told me that they are attending to my problem, but nothing happened."

The new Congress government took over last year, but the issue has not been resolved, she added. "The tahsildar asked me to call on his personal number and not official number, but many advised me against it," she said.

Ashwini's father-in-law Eshwar Soundatte told TNIE that he too visited these offices, but nothing worked. Not just Ashwini, 12 other people who received compensation cheques are suffering in Bengaluru Urban district. They are, M Nagaraju, Shantamma, Malamma, Muniyamma, Jayamma, Jagadish NS, Sudha, Sharath, Clara Mary, Rathnamma, Jayamma and Sumitra.

TNIE contacted the offices of tahsildar and DC, but there was no response from their end.

When alerted, Lokayukta Justice BS Patil said, "We will immediately step in to help.''

The Soundatte family spent nearly Rs 23 lakh on Santosh's hospital expenses.

LABOUR'S LANDSLIDE WIN A REJECTION OF AUSTERE ECONOMICS

THE irony was not lost on everyone. On July 4, the day Americans commemorate the ratification of their independence from British rule, the soul of the now-diminished kingdom, suppressed under austere Conservative policies for 14 years, found utterance. The British Labour Party swept aside the Tories with the largest parliamentary majority in a quarter century. Many records tumbled through the night of counting. As support for the Conservatives cratered across the isles, a dozen cabinet ministers lost their seats, the highest since the second world war; Liz Truss became the first former prime minister to lose. The presence of 26 Indian-origin MPs in the UK House of Commons is now an all-time high.

Voters did not just repudiate Rishi Sunak's government—they voted on how all five Conservative prime ministers since 2010 have reshaped Britain. Productivity and real wages have stagnated, welfare measures have been slashed, homelessness has soared, and investment rates have fallen to the lowest among the G7. A report estimates Brexit has cost the UK economy £140 billion between 2016 and 2023.

This was as much a vote for Labour as one against Conservatives. Labour won almost two-thirds of the seats off just a third of the votes, that too on the lowest turnout in more than two decades. For the first time ever in the UK, four parties bagged more than 10 percent of the votes and five others got more than 5 percent. Support for the three-party primacy, which includes the Liberal Democrats, has been sliding since 1987; this time it made way for a truly plural polity for the first time.

Keir Starmer, the Labour leader now sworn in as prime minister, has nudged his party towards the centre-ground of British politics since 2020, much like Tony Blair did in the 1990s. The shift, in part, meant that Starmer refused to unequivocally condemn Israel's carnage in Gaza, which lost him up to a fifth of the Muslim vote. Jeremy Corbyn, the earlier Labour leader who broke from his party's line, won his old seat as an independent. So when Starmer pledged to "deliver change", his promise to reinvest in public services topped the British voter's wishlist more than foreign policy. But we are sure some endearing things will not change. Larry, the 10 Downing Street cat, will be one of the few to survive this tectonic shift.

CHASTEN SFI, END ITS CAMPUS TYRANNY

THERE seems to be no end to the violence unleashed by the Students Federation of India (SFI) on educational campuses in Kerala. The latest two in a series of such incidents involving the student wing of the CPI(M) are an alleged assault on the principal of a college in Koyilandy, Kozhikode district following a dispute, and the reported torture of a leader of the Congress-affiliated Kerala Students Union in a hostel room at the Kariavattom campus of University of Kerala in Thiruvananthapuram. This February, a student of Kerala Veterinary and Animal Sciences University in Wayanad died by suicide after he was reportedly subjected to mob trial and torture by SFI members. In the Thiruvananthapuram incident, the attackers were led by the son of a former CPI(M) MP. Later, SFI workers even manhandled two Congress MLAs when they tried to protest. After the Koyilandy assault, an SFI leader issued a public threat to physically harm the principal.

Campus violence is not new in Kerala and the student wings of all political parties have a role in nurturing this culture. But SFI seems to be scaling up the aggression of late, encouraged and emboldened by the unwavering support of the parent party. The often-reported refusal or delay on the part of the police to book SFI and DYFI activists for violence underline this political patronage. While the latest incidents were widely condemned including by the CPI, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan and the CPI(M) chose to put up a strong defence, talking about conspiracies and efforts to destroy the student outfit.

SFI's campus tyranny, especially its role in the Wayanad death, is said to have contributed to CPI(M)'s disastrous showing in the parliamentary elections. Yet, there seems to be no attempt at course correction. The unconditional patronage of the CPI(M), which has been in power in the state since 2016, has given SFI members a sense that they can get away with anything. From political activism to sheer goondaism, the outfit's turn is real and dangerous. It must be stopped. While student politics has a significant role in a democracy, these outfits cannot be allowed to hold campuses to ransom. CPI(M), as a responsible party, must take it upon itself to correct its campus arm and drive some sense into its unruly members. Unchastened and disruptive, SFI is a burden for CPI(M).

QUICK TAKE

CLAMP DOWN ON TRAFFICKERS

THE foreign secretary's confirmation on Friday that the prime minister will seek the early discharge of Indians "misled" into serving in the Russian army during his upcoming Moscow visit is welcome. An estimated 30-40 Indians are believed to be still serving Russia's war effort. Sri Lanka, too, says "dozens" of its citizens are stuck in a similar fate; it has tightened controls to stop more from being duped. Nepal said in May at least 200 of its citizens were serving on the front. The Indian government should coordinate its efforts—with state and neighbouring countries' governments—to clamp down on the traffickers who entrap these desperate job seekers.

Labour's huge win was partly made possible by others who cut into opponents' votes. If the new UK PM can't deliver soon, those parties will be waiting to pounce

WHY STARMER CAN'T DELAY THE PROMISED CHANGE

MIKE JEMPSON

Bristol-based journalist and Director, The MediaWise Trust

CAUTION rules the waves as the British Labour Party takes charge in the United Kingdom after an election victory that ousted the Conservatives from power with the loss of 250 parliamentary seats.

With an overall majority of 238 in the 650-seat chamber of the House of Commons, Labour's leader Keir Starmer is in a strong position to effect the 'change' his team promised throughout the election campaign. However, he was at pains to lower expectations of a swift transformation in 'broken Britain' when he addressed the public outside 10 Downing Street.

Admitting that most people no longer had faith that things would be better for their children, he promised that Labour would "fight every day until you believe again, unburdened by doctrine".

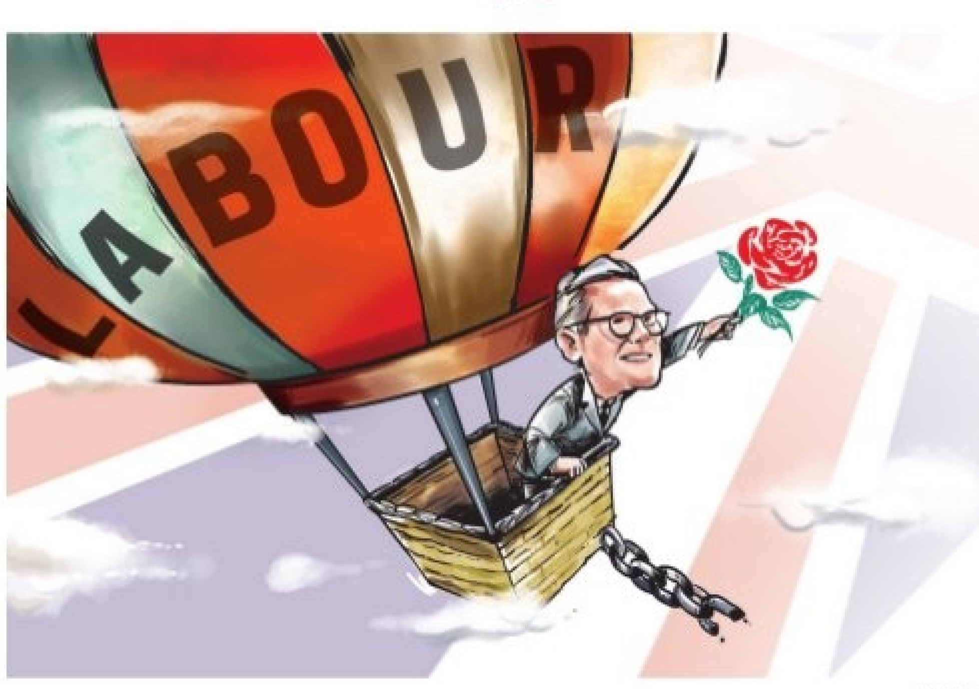
He and Rachel Reeves, the UK's first woman chancellor, have severely limited their ability to make rapid improvements in public services by insisting they will not rely on borrowing or increase general taxation in the near future. Instead, the new government will focus on 'growth' by seeking to stimulate private investment.

This is in marked contrast to the approach favoured by the last Labour leader, Jeremy Corbyn, whose socialist agenda in 2019 garnered more votes than Labour won this time. He attracted many young people to the party, but their enthusiasm was trounced by Boris Johnson riding on a wave of misplaced euphoria over Brexit, which has since damaged the British economy and disillusioned so many.

Now expelled from Labour but running as an Independent, Corbyn kept his seat in a north London constituency by beating Labour's candidate, one of more than 100 prospective parliamentarians of Indian origin in this general election. Of the 26 who were successful, most stood for Labour, including 10 Sikhs.

Controversial Conservative MPs Priti Patel and Suella Braverman were both re-elected, as was Britain's first Hindu and richest Prime Minister Rishi Sunak. In a gracious admission of failure, announcing that he would stand down as leader of the Conservative Party, he was flanked by a rather glum-looking Akshata. His wife was gripping the umbrella that might have come in handy when he announced a hastily-called general election in pouring rain six weeks ago.

His party's collapse to the worst result in more than a century was brought about in large part by the emergence of the far-right Reform Party led by two wealthy mavericks, Nigel Farage and Richard Tice. They ensured Labour's 'landslide' victory by coming second in 98 seats and taking most of their votes from the Conservatives.



MANDAR PARDIKAR

Reform won 14 percent of the overall vote, but were rewarded with only four seats, as were the Greens with only 7 percent of the votes; yet Labour with a 34 percent share of the vote won more than 400 seats.

Other results also showed anomalies in Britain's first-past-the-post system. Welsh nationalists Plaid Cymru won four seats with a mere 1 percent of vote, while republican nationalists Sinn Féin in Northern Ireland won seven seats with a similar share. The Scottish Nationalists were reduced to nine seats with a 3 percent share. All of which is bound to strengthen calls for a system of proportional representation, one of the consistent demands of the resurgent Liberal Democrats, who won 71 seats with only 12 percent of the votes.

Meanwhile, the incoming government will also have to deal with the fact that independent candidates made a strong showing in several areas with a large Muslim population, winning three seats and even unseating former shadow cabinet minister Jonathan Ashworth. Fuelling a revolt among Muslims who usually vote Labour has been anger at the party's lacklustre response to the crisis in Gaza, coupled with dismay at the prominence of so many Labour Friends of Israel among potential cabinet members, including the new prime minister.

This will be one of many conundrums facing David Lammy, likely to be the new foreign secretary, as he seeks to balance his support for Israel with his dealings with most of the world's nations that have condemned outright Israel's bombardment of the Gaza strip.

The Conservatives presided over a turbulent period in British politics, with Brexit and the Covid pandemic undermining confidence not only in their leadership, but also revealing behaviours that many voters regard as corrupt and self-serving.

Jubilation at their dismissal is tempered with anxiety that the page Keir Starmer promised to turn with a promise of "calm but patient rebuilding" might simply mean a new period of austerity and crushed dreams. There is much riding on his optimism that his will be a "government of service in a mission of national renewal" in what he admitted is "an increasingly volatile world".

A great deal of racist dog-whistling about immigration has been a feature of the election campaign, not least from Reform Party campaigners, but more pressing issues confront communities throughout the British Isles.

A hiatus in house-building, shortcomings in the National Health Service, especially in mental health services and the provision of care for the elderly and disabled, and a dearth of teachers and safe school buildings are issues that need urgent attention. They all directly affect voters and represent the biggest challenges facing the new government if it is to demonstrate a capacity to respond swiftly to public concerns.

More than 13,000 asylum-seekers are currently incarcerated at public expense. Allowing them to work while their applications are being assessed could make a contribution to resolving some of these problems at the community level.

An imaginative approach to mending broken Britain lies less in preventing the arrival of those seeking sanctuary from war, oppression and climate change, than in addressing the bread-and-butter needs of citizens who would happily welcome those keen to contribute and earn their keep in a safe country.

The caution urged by the Labour leadership will not sit well with voters if they are expected to wait for a second Starmer administration for things to get better. Across Europe and the Atlantic, right-wing parties like Reform are set to pounce if the mainstream fails to deliver.

THREATENING THE THIRD PLACE FOR THE PEOPLE

PRATIK KANJILAL

For years, the author has been speaking easy to a surprisingly tolerant public

SPEAKEASY

IN matters like free speech and (intellectual) property rights, the world is interested in US law because it is a pioneer. A recent ruling by the US Supreme Court on homelessness, the crime of not owning or renting living spaces, would have gotten attention overseas if it were not for the uproar about Donald Trump, who is being shielded from prosecution by the apex court for bizarre actions committed while in office.

The Trump case reduces the accountability of the world's most powerful person, and it is occasioning restless debate and angry editorialising everywhere. The uproar has overshadowed the court's opinion on homelessness, the second since it was first perceived to be a problem in the 1980s. In a polarising judgement from which all liberal judges dissented, the court essentially told people without a roof over their heads: don't fall asleep or you could be arrested.

Homelessness is painfully visible in prosperous nations because it looks like a cruel paradox. It is normalised in poorer nations, especially where development causes mass displacement. But as more nations, both developed and developing, tilt to the right, there will be more homelessness, because right-wing economics hardens property rights and widens the divide between the rich and poor. The US law's response to homelessness could find takers in, say, Italy or India, because it's easier to criminalise a problem than to solve it.

The legal trail began in Boise, Idaho in 2018. The population is about 2.35 lakh, of which about 600 were homeless. The majority were sheltered by the state, and only 60 'slept rough', out on the streets. Of these, six opposed the city in America's biggest appellate court, on an ordinance criminalising using "streets, sidewalks, parks, or public places as a camping place at any time". Camping is defined as the "use of public property as a temporary or permanent place of dwelling, lodging, or residence".

The plaintiffs argued that this amounted to preventing homeless people from sleeping, violating the Eighth Amendment to the US constitution that bars "cruel and unusual punishments". This triggered another case against the City of Grants Pass, Oregon—population about 40,000, of which 600-odd are homeless, which had a similar ordinance concerning camping. Last week, the US Supreme Court upheld the ordinance. Which means, outrageously, that no homeless American can sleep in public any more without running the risk of arrest.

This case affects few people but is significant as by criminalising an action that homeless people cannot help doing, it saves governments the bother of forming a policy response—cheap housing, in this case—to a social problem. If this is acceptable to the apex court of a nation that invests heavily in welfare and subsidies, believing that it is profitable, it would be welcomed by governments like India's, which think of welfare as wasted expenditure.

AFP

Ray Oldenberg had named home as the first place, workplace as the second, and a commons that could be a street corner, park or playground as the third. By outlawing something homeless people can't help doing, the US is criminalising a problem rather than solving it

The number of homeless and migrants have been increasing in both rich and developing nations. For instance, San Francisco is a city in crisis partly because money flowing in from Silicon Valley has made housing unaffordable. In India, we camouflage our crisis by calling homeless "pavement dwellers". They are not homeless, please. The pavements of the cities they are forced to migrate to are their homes. The slightly more fortunate live in slums and shanties, and Sanjay Gandhi was only the first politician to dream of making them vanish.

A full life requires more than shelter. People need three distinct places in their lives, urban sociologist Ray Oldenberg proposed in the 1980s (precisely when homelessness became a problem)—a home (first place), a workplace (second place), and a third place, a commons that could be a street corner, a public park, library or playground, or even a role playing game online—any place where everyone is a visitor, therefore equal. These are spaces we inhabit when we take time off from building a home and career, activities that consume our lives.

Third places are psychologically important because they let us loiter without the pressure of goals, competition or commerce. Oldenburg believed they foster democratic sentiments, civil society and a sense of belonging. Their importance became obvious during the pandemic lockdowns, which conflated the first and second places—the workplace and the home merged. The third place was erased because no one could venture out, and cities became sprawls of dwelling units in isolation. Millions of people went quietly mad.

The ruling against homeless people sleeping in public places signals that the third place is now threatened in the country where it was discovered. America dislikes loitering. Signs in semi-private areas, like pedestrian thoroughfares through campuses, urge police to act against loiterers. McDonald's outlets have signs warning patrons to clear out in 30 minutes.

It's all right for munitions to loiter, but people must not. They must go to work or go home. If they go to a third place, they must pay for the privilege, as in a cinema, a restaurant or mass transit. And if they have lost their jobs and their homes, they must be penalised for living their lives in public, without any commercial transaction. Just as the urban poor in India are picked up in a police dragnet every time a foreign dignitary loiters by. Poverty is a great equaliser. Nobody who's privileged, no matter where, wants it to be visible.

Strategy boomerang

Ref: TDP should heed poll verdict against vendetta politics (Jul 5). The tit for tat action unleashed by the TDP against former CM Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy's party will boomerang on them. It should realise that the Janata Party that came to power in 1977 fell apart like a house of cards in less than three years because of its vendetta politics against the Congress.

New leadership

Britain's Labour Party brutally defeated the Conservatives in the UK's general election. Party leader Keir Starmer will be the next prime minister. Starmer will become the 58th prime minister of the UK. One is curious to see how his tenure will look like for the nation.

Cricket religion

Ref: When India came together (Jul 5). India witnessed two contrasting crowd incidents within days. While the one in Hathras brought sorrow to the nation in the aftermath of a stampede, the other brought cheers when the Men in Blue took an open-bus victory parade on Mumbai roads in jubilation of Team India's recent T20 world cup triumph. This leads us to believe that treating cricket as a bona fide religion is more realistic than people having blind faith in self-styled godmen.
R Sivakumar, Chennai

Serious issues

Cricket is truly a game that ignites passion, as was seen in the victory parade in Mumbai. At the same time, people seem to have unitedly forgotten the serious issues the nation is going through, like NEET and NTA lapses, hooch tragedy, Hathras mishap and Manipur killings.
Rajakumar Arulanandham, Palayamkottai

Infection source

The third fatality due to primary amoebic meningoencephalitis in two months has been reported from Kerala. The pathogen, a rare 'brain-eating' amoeba, infects ponds and water bodies, where the victims bathe. This calls for identifying a possible common source of infection and disinfecting the same.
George Jacob, Kochi

Impartial investigation

The inability of the police to trace Bhole Baba three days after the incident in Hathras is indeed concerning, highlighting potential lapses in the investigation process. Given his background as an ex-police officer, there might be conflicts of interest that impede a thorough investigation. The central government must consider appointing an impartial and reliable agency to ensure justice is served.

The issue of the Indian nationals stuck with the Russian army is also likely to figure in the discussions. The annual India-Russia summit is taking place after three years, and "we attach great importance to it," the Foreign Secretary said.

India-Russia bilateral trade has seen a "sharp increase" in 2023-24. It has reached $65.70 billion primarily due to strong energy cooperation between the countries, Kwatra said.

India's exports to Russia stand at $4.26 billion and imports at $61.44 billion, states a statement issued by the India's Embassy in Russia. "Major items of export from India include pharmaceuticals, organic chemicals, electrical machinery and mechanical appliances, iron and steel, while major items of import from Russia include oil and petroleum products, fertilisers, mineral resources, stones and metals, and vegetable oils, among others," the statement said. Bilateral trade in services has remained stable during the last five years with trade balance in Russia's favour. It amounted to $1.021 billion for 2021.

"Bilateral investments between the two countries remain strong and surpassed the previous target of $30 billion in 2018, leading to a revised target of $50 billion by 2025," the statement reads. "Major bilateral investments by Russia in India are in the oil and gas, petrochemicals, banking, railways and steel sectors, while Indian investments in Russia are mainly in oil and gas and pharmaceuticals sectors."

On the second leg of his visit, Kwatra said, Modi will visit Austria on July 9-10.

EXAM PREP

NEET-PG exam date out, to be held in 2 shifts on August 11

KAVITA BAJELI DATT @ New Delhi

THE NEET-PG entrance examination will be held on August 11 in two shifts, the National Board of Examinations in Medical Sciences (NBEMS) announced on Friday.

"In continuation of NBEMS notice, the conduct of NEET-PG 2024 has been rescheduled. It shall now be conducted on August 11 in two shifts," the board which conducts the exam, said.

The announcement came amidst controversy over last minute cancellation of the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test for Postgraduate (NEET PG) examination, which was earlier scheduled for June 23. The cancellation angered aspirants as many of them had travelled hundreds of kilometers to reach examination centres, which in some cases, were in other states.

Union Health Secretary Apurva Chandra said, "The NEET-PG date has been announced. It will be on August 11. The main change is that the exam will be held in two sessions. While half of the candidates will appear in the first session, and the rest will appear in the second session."

Hearing on same-sex marriage pleas on July 10

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court is set to hear on July 10 a batch of petitions seeking review of the earlier verdict refusing to recognize same-sex marriages.

A five judge bench led by CJI D Y Chandrachud will hear the pleas in a chamber. In addition to the CJI, the other four judges in the bench will be Justices Sanjiv Khanna, BV Nagarathna, Hima Kohli and PS Narasimha.

In the newly constituted bench of the apex court, Justices Khanna and Nagarathna would replace Justices Sanjay Kishan Kaul and S Ravindra Bhat- since they had retired after delivering the verdict last year.

While Justice Kaul retired on December 25 last year, after serving the apex court for a period of 6 years and 10 months, Justice Bhat -- who was elevated as a Supreme Court Judge September 23, 2019 -- retired on October 20 last year, after fulfilling his duties for three years and 28 days.

It may be noted that the review petitions is being heard in a chamber, where no parties -- whether it would be petitioner, respondent or lawyer or litigant -- would be presence.

But at the same time, the petitioners, think and deem it to be fit, and decide that the matter is for an open court hearing, then they can mention it or give their respective representations to the court or respective bench.

In a setback to gay rights activists, the apex court had on October 17 last year, in its landmark judgement, declined to grant legal recognition to same-sex marriages, saying "It is only for the Parliament and state legislatures to create such institutions and grant them legal validation. Role of legislature has been to act as a codifier of customs and wherever necessary intervene in furtherance of Article 14 and 15(3) to enact laws," it had said in its verdict.

The top court was also unanimous in its judgement that it was beyond their purview to issue a positive direction and or order to the legislature to accord legal recognition to same-sex marriage.

The judges had unanimously given a go ahead to a high-powered committee proposed by the Centre to examine the concerns of same-sex couples and moot certain corrective measures.

In a bid to lessen the pendency of cases in the top court, the special Lok Adalat will be organised in the 75th year of the establishment of the apex court, which came into existence on January 26, 1950 with the coming into force of the Constitution.

Nitish cracks the whip, suspends 16 engineers for Bihar bridge collapses

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A bridge that collapsed near Sikandarpuri village in Siwan district

The Nitish Kumar government on Friday suspended 16 engineers for negligence in the first crackdown following the collapse of 10 bridges across Bihar in a span of 16 days, officials said. In addition to the suspension of 16 engineers, explanations have been sought from two other engineers. The role of some executing contractors is under the scanner, the officials said.

Additional chief secretary (water resources) Chaitanya Prasad said the contractors responsible for the collapsed bridges were being identified and would be taken to task soon. "Such serious lapses can't be ignored and those found to be guilty will not be spared whosoever they may be," Prasad told reporters.

The action was taken against 16 engineers -- 11 from the water resources department and five from the rural works department -- a day after the collapse of the 10th bridge in Saran district on Thursday. Bridge collapses were reported from Saran, Siwan, Araria, Madhubani, East Champaran and Kishanganj districts.

A senior executive engineer of the water resources department said, "Out of these collapsed bridges, six were very old and three were under construction. The other one was a small bridge."

The report of the flying squad revealed that the engineers concerned didn't take precautionary measures to ensure the safety of the bridges nor did they conduct technical supervision. The departments swung into action after a review meeting chaired by CM Nitish Kumar on July 3. The meeting discussed the maintenance policies to keep the bridges and culverts intact, officials said.

During the meeting, it came to the fore that the road construction department has already prepared its maintenance policy while the rural works department was yet to start the exercise. CM asked the rural works department to start work on it at the earliest.

RJD Tejashwi Prasad Yadav sought to know the reason for the bridge collapses. He claimed that 12 bridges have fallen in Bihar since June 18. "Both PM Modi and CM Nitish Kumar are silent on the issue. What happened to the claims to good governance and a corruption-free government in Bihar?" RJD leader said in a post on 'X'.

₹4K cr contract okayed by GA govt cancelled

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

THE Bihar Public Health Engineering Department (PHED) has cancelled a contract worth ₹4,000 crore, initially signed during the previous grand alliance regime, citing serious irregularities.

State Public Health Engineering Minister Neeraj Kumar Bablu announced on Friday that the department would issue a new tender, aiming to complete the process within a month, with work commencing in August. Providing further details, the minister explained that the previous contract, intended to ensure the smooth supply of drinking water under the chief minister's ambitious 'Nal Jal Yojana' scheme, was canceled after a complaint was found to be valid.

A probe revealed that several villages and mohallas were not covered under the old tender. "Our department will ensure that these villages and mohallas are connected, making sure that not a single house is left out," Bablu added. The cancellation is set to become a major political issue, as the opposition RJD plans to oppose the government's action.

Baba billionaire with 3-piece suit

Moves in convoy of SUVs led by 16 commandos in black uniform riding 350cc motorcycles

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

BHOLE Baba, whom lakhs had flocked to see ahead of the massive tragedy which claimed 121 lives in Hathras on Tuesday July 2, is still away from the police net. Neither does his name figure among the accused in the FIR nor has he been questioned either by the probe teams or senior police authorities in connection with the incident.

Moreover, police authorities are seen evading a direct reply over his role in the stampede that broke out after the 'satsang' saying that he will be interrogated if required.

Born as Suraj Pal Jatav (65), the preacher — who likes to be known as Narayan Sakar Hari — spreads the message of 'manav dharma' in his satsang sabhas. He owns around two dozen ashrams across Uttar Pradesh and neighbouring states, a fleet of luxury vehicles, assets running into crores and a personal army of security guards and commandos, claim sources.

The Baba usually sports white three-piece suit, a tie and trendy, upmarket specs. He moves in a convoy of multiple four-wheelers led by 16 commandos in black uniform riding 350 cc motorcycles.

Baton-wielding sewadars in light pink uniforms

Born as Suraj Pal Jatav (65), Bhole Baba's 'sewadars' are seen in light pink uniforms carrying batons. The 'sewadars' came charging with baton towards the crowd after the 'satsang sabha' when women rushed towards the preacher for his blessings in Hathras.

His 'sewadars' are seen in light pink uniforms carrying batons. The stampede victims claimed that the 'sewadars' were baton charging the crowd after the 'satsang sabha' when women rushed towards the preacher for his blessings leading to the stampede. The sources also claim that the 'sewadars' have been asked not to let people take either his pictures or videos.

The Baba stays in his Bichuva ashram in Mainpuri district. Spread over sprawling 21 bighas and named as Hari Nagar, six rooms inside the expansive ashram are reserved for the Baba and his wife Malti Devi. The huge board at the entrance displays the names of 200 donors who contributed from ₹10,000 to ₹2.5 lakh towards the construction of the facility.

SIT report on Hathras yet to be submitted

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

SENIOR police authorities claimed that if need be, preacher Bhole Baba would be interrogated. However, the initial confidential report of the SIT, comprising the statements of Hathras District administrative authorities including DM Ashish Kumar, SP Nipun Aggarwal, and senior health officials who tended to the emergency situation after the stampede, is yet to be submitted to CM Yogi, said the sources.

On Tuesday, when the UP Police registered an FIR against Baba's Mukhya Sewadar Devprakash Madhukar and other unnamed organisers, Bhole Baba's name was missing in the FIR. The complaint claimed that over 2.5 lakh people from various districts had gathered for Satsang whereas the organisers had sought permission for only 80,000 people. It also claimed the bodyguards stopped the devotees rushing to take his blessings.

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

WITH the Assembly polls likely to be held in Jammu and Kashmir by September as per the order by the Supreme Court, the BJP high command has directed the party unit in the state to gear up for the elections in the Union Territory.

The BJP chief J P Nadda would be visiting Jammu on Saturday for detailed discussion with the party leaders on the poll preparations.

Sources said BJP president J P Nadda and Union Home Minister Amit Shah held detailed deliberations with J&K BJP leaders in the national capital on forthcoming Assembly polls a few days back.

"During the Delhi meeting which was attended by top J&K BJP leaders, the party high command took feedback from leaders on the poll preparations for the Assembly and ULB and panchayat polls in UT," sources said. The leaders also discussed the recently held parliamentary polls in J&K in which BJP retained both its seats in Jammu region but the party's victory margin declined significantly.

'Increase outreach'

Sources said the BJP high commander directed the J&K unit leaders to increase their political activities and public outreach programmes to make people aware about the developmental works undertaken by the party

Sources said the party high commander directed the J&K unit leaders to increase their political activities and public outreach programmes to make people aware about the developmental works and projects undertaken in the UT by the central government since the abrogation of Article 370 on August 5, 2019. Cong's Nana Patole eyes MCA president's post

Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole is likely to run for the Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) president post in the upcoming elections scheduled for July 23. The election was necessitated by the sudden demise of the incumbent MCA president, Amol Kale, who suffered a heart attack in the US. The Mazgaon Cricket Club has nominated Patole as its representative, enabling him to file his nomination for the MCA president post. The late Amol Kale was a close friend of Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis. Patole is also reaching out to Uddhav Thackeray.

Eknath Shinde's power play

Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde recently met Union Minister Amit Shah in Delhi, where he reportedly made power-point presentations. Shinde conveyed that if the state assembly election is fought under his leadership, projecting him as the chief ministerial face of Mahayuti, they can reclaim power. He assured Shah that he has a mega plan, which he explained during his presentation. Shinde also promised to shoulder the entire election expenses if his candidacy as CM is upheld. However, the top BJP leadership has not yet given a clear signal.

Biennial polls to Legislative Council

In the biennial elections of the Maharashtra state legislative council, 12 candidates have filed their applications for 11 seats. Speculation is rife that Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar has enough numbers to secure seats for his two candidates with the quota of 23 MLAs. However, some of his MLAs, who are in contact with former Union Minister Sharad Pawar, might secretly vote against junior Pawar in the secret ballot on July 12 in Mumbai. Sharad Pawar-led NCP (SP) has not fielded its own candidate but has extended support to Peasant Workers Party (PWP) leader Jayant Patil, who heavily relies on Sharad Pawar, Ajit Pawar, and other turncoats during elections.

In its advisory, the met department pointed out moderate to high flash flood risk (FFR) in the eastern region, which include Sikkim, and Himalayan West Bengal, and the northern region, including Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand.

IMD advises people to stay away from water bodies in view of flash flood | PTI

"Low to medium flash flood risk is likely over a few watersheds and neighbourhoods of east Rajasthan and eastern parts of west Rajasthan, southern region Western Ghats and western region Konkan and Gujarat," the IMD said in its bulletin.

"Moderate to high flash flood risk is also likely over a few watersheds and neighbourhoods of sub-Himalayan West Bengal and Sikkim during next 24 hours," the bulletin said.

"The moderate FFR risk is likely to spill over to a few watersheds and neighbourhoods of Bihar, Assam, Meghalaya and Arunachal Pradesh met sub-divisions during next 24 hours," it said, adding that fast water flow on the surface may cause inundation.

High FFR is likely in Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand as well as Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh met sub-divisions. In Rajasthan, there would be low to moderate FFR in both regions Eastern Rajasthan and eastern part of Western Rajasthan. Moreover in the South, low to moderate FFR is likely over a few watersheds of coastal Karnataka, Konkan and Goa, and Gujarat region met sub-divisions during next 24 hours.

A flash flood is caused by excessive rainfall in a short period of time which rip through river beds, urban streets, or mountain canyons, causing loss of lives and properties.

IMD predicted widespread light to moderate rainfall along with thunderstorms and lightning across northwest and central India over the next five days. Some areas could experience very heavy to extremely heavy rainfall.

No more child labour in J'khand mica mines

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

IN a landmark achievement for the state and country as well, the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) on Friday declared Mica mines in Jharkhand as 'Child Labour Free'. During a programme organised by 'Bachpan Bachao Andolan' supported by Kailash Satyarthi's Children Foundation in Jharkhand's Koderma, NCPCR chairperson Priyank Kanoongo stated that not only all the child labourers from mica mines have been withdrawn; but they are also enrolled in schools.

Kanoongo attributed first ever such successful endeavour to cleanse supply chain of child labour in mica mining to the collaborative efforts of the state, district, and local governing bodies, 'Child Labour Free Mica' programme, children and communities.

"Today as I declare that all children are free from exploitation in mica mines and are headed to schools," he added.

UP stampede: Rahul blames administration

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

LEADER of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Friday said there were administrative lapses that led to the recent Hathras stampede, which killed 121 people, but added that he did not want to make it a political issue.

"There have been mistakes and those should be looked into. The most important thing is that the bereaved families from the poor and deprived sections of society must be given more and more compensation in this difficult hour," he said.

Rahul urged UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath to arrange generous financial relief. "It will be insignificance if delayed and paid after six months, a year," said Rahul, who visited Aligarh and Hathras to meet the injured getting treatment in hospitals. Both the UP and the Central governments have already announced ex-gratia of ₹2 lakh each to the next kin of the deceased and ₹50,000 to the injured. So, each family that lost its kin would get ₹4 lakh and the injured would get ₹1 lakh.

Rahul, who met the relatives of the victims in a park, later said most of the injured had complaints about the administration. "The required police mobilisation to handle such a gathering was not there."

Most of the victims seems annoyed with the Bhole Baba, who held the congregation but fled after the stampede.

Oath to MLAs by Speaker unconstitutional, says Guv

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal Governor CV Ananda Bose on Friday termed Speaker Bimal Bandhyopadhyay administering oath to the two-newly elected Trinamool Congress (TMC) legislators as "unconstitutional".

The Governor expressed his disappointment in a letter to President Droupudi Murmu. The impasse over the swearing-in of Sayantika Banerjee (Baranagar) and Reyat Houssen Sarkar (Bhagawangola) ended on Friday after the Speaker administered the oath to them as they were adamant on not taking their oaths in the Raj Bhavan.

Despite being asked by the Governor, Deputy Speaker Ashish Banerjee had refused saying, "It does not seem right that the Deputy Speaker administers oath while the Speaker is present".

Though Banerjee had initially agreed after speaking to the Speaker, later he backtracked saying the Speaker should administer the oath. Finally, defying the Governor's directive, the Speaker administered the oath to the two. Notably, the face-off wbetween the ruling TMC and the Governor began in the second week of June after the Governor invited the MLAs to the Raj Bhavan for oath-taking on June 26, which they refused.

The Governor, who normally assigns either the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker to give oath to the legislators, sent a letter inviting the MLAs to the Raj Bhavan. However, the letter reportedly did not mention who would administer the oath.

This led the TMC to announce that it would boycott the event. The State Parliamentary Affairs Minister said, "It is insulting to a people's representative. The letter only mentioned that a person selected by the Governor will administer the oath. This is unprecedented in a democratic system". The two MLAs then sat on a protest at the Assembly demanding either the Governor come to the Assembly to administer the oath or assign the Speaker.

SGPC condoles death of '81 hijacker in Lahore

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

GAJINDER Singh, 74, who was a wanted terrorist involved in the hijacking of an Indian Airlines (IA) flight to Lahore in 1981, has died after a heart attack at a hospital in Pakistan. The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbhandak Committee (SGPC) passes a resolution expressing grief over his death.

Dal Khalsa spokesperson Paramjit Singh Mand said Gajinder Singh's daughter Bikramjit Kaur who lives in the United Kingdom with her family has confirmed the development. Singh was the co-founder of radical outfit Dal Khalsa. In 2002, he was included in a list of 20 most wanted terrorists.

He was among the five men who hijacked the Indian Airlines flight IC-423 that took off from Palam airport in Delhi for Srinagar on September 29, 1981. The flight carried 111 passengers and six crew members and was forced to land in Lahore. Singh was demanding the release of Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale and several other Khalistani militants in protest against the death of 16 Sikhs in police firing at Chowk Mehta earlier that year.

They were arrested by Pakistan authorities on September 30, 1981, tried and were all awarded 14-year imprisonment by a special court in Lahore. They completed their sentence on October 31, 1994. The co-conspirators were Tejinder Pal Singh, Satnam Singh Paonta Sahib, Dalbir Singh and Karan Singh. In 1996 Gajinder went to Germany but was not allowed to enter that country after objections were raised by India and he returned to Pakistan.

KEIR STARMER VOWS TO REBUILD BRITAIN

LONDON

KEIR Starmer on Friday promised to "rebuild Britain" as he took office as the UK's new prime minister following his centre-left Labour party's landslide general election victory that ended 14 years of Conservative rule.

Head of state King Charles III asked Starmer to form a government during a meeting at Buckingham Palace, officially appointing the 61-year-old as prime minister. Labour's victory is a stunning turnaround from 2019 elections, when the party plunged to its worst defeat since 1935. Flag-waving crowds of cheering Labour activists lined Downing Street as Starmer arrived as the party's first prime minister since Gordon Brown in 2010. "Now, our country has voted decisively for change, for national renewal and a return of politics to public service," he said in his first speech in the role. "The work of change begins immediately, but have no doubt, we will rebuild Britain."

Starmer quickly went to work appointing his new cabinet, with Rachel Reeves becoming Britain's first female finance minister and David Lammy appointed foreign secretary. The results buck a trend among Britain's closest Western allies, with the far right in France eyeing power and Donald Trump looking set for a return in the US.

Congratulations came in from the European Council chief Charles Michel, French President Emmanuel Macron, and Germany's Chancellor Olaf Scholz, who said Starmer would be a "very good, very successful" prime minister. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said the two countries would "continue to be reliable allies through thick and thin".

Sunak tendered his resignation to the king shortly after returning to London from his rural constituency in northern England, where the depth of his party's defeat quickly became apparent. The Tories' worst previous election result was 156 seats in 1906. Former leader William Hague told Times Radio this was "a catastrophic result in historic terms".

The new government on Friday pledged immediate action to grow the economy after the centre-left party won a landslide general election victory.

However, its task could be hampered by strained state finances following huge spending by the previous Conservative administration to protect millions of jobs during the Covid pandemic.

Britain's economy is currently on a more stable footing after exiting a mild recession, as inflation returns to normal and with Bank of England interest-rate cuts on the horizon.

"Labour talked a lot about wanting to boost the economy and help businesses during its election campaign," noted Dan Coatsworth, investment analyst at AJ Bell. Agencies

Oldest person to take PM's chair since 1976

LONDON

BRITAIN'S new prime minister Keir Starmer is an ex-human rights lawyer and public prosecutor who will have to focus his relentless work ethic and methodical mind on fixing the country. At 61, Starmer is the oldest person to take the role in almost half a century, but was only elected to parliament nine years ago. The married father-of-two is unlike most modern politicians: he had a long and distinguished career before becoming an MP and his views are rooted in pragmatism rather than ideology.

"We must return politics to service," Starmer said repeatedly during the campaign, promising to put "country first, party second" following 14 chaotic years of Conservative rule under five different prime ministers.

That mantra chimes with supporters' lauding of him as a safe pair of hands who will approach life in Downing Street the same way he did his legal career: seriously and forensically.

Detractors, though, label him an uninspiring opportunist who regularly shifts position. They say he has not spelled out a clear and defining vision for the country. Supporters admit that lacks the charisma of more flashy predecessors like Boris Johnson, but say that therein lies his appeal: a reassuring and strait-laced presence following the turbulent, self-serving years of Tory rule.

Britain's King Charles III (R) welcomes Keir Starmer at Buckingham Palace in London | AFP

With his grey quiff and black-rimmed glasses — Starmer, named after Labour's founding father Keir Hardie — is also the centre-left party's most working-class leader in decades. "My dad was a toolmaker, my mum was a nurse," he often told voters. AFP

Bajaj launches world's first CNG bike at ₹95K

The 125-cc engine comes with a dual tank for CNG, petrol and fuels can be manually or automatically switched

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @Mumbai

BAJAJ Auto, which has over 30 years expertise in the CNG segment in the three-wheeler space, has launched the world's first bike fired by this greener fuel.

The 125-cc engine comes with a dual tank for CNG and petrol and the fuels can be manually or automatically switched. Launching the bike, which has been in the making for over two and a half years, has eaten up a mountain of cash from the world's most profitable two-wheeler maker, which also is the most valuable automaker in the country. Union transport and highways minister Nitin Gadkari said over the next five years, the country will be the second-largest auto manufacturer in the world after China, having already overtaken Japan as the world's third-largest automobile market after the US and China just two months ago. Speaking about the bike, which has been aptly named Freedom, he said if the bike is priced under ₹1 lakh then the owner can recover the money in a few years given mileage it offers and the lower cost of the fuel. The bike offers 330 km range combined— 65 km per litre from its 2 liter petrol tank and the rest from the 2 litre CNG tank. After the minster's appeal on the price front, the company announced the entry model at ₹95,000 and the mid variant at ₹1,05,000 and the top variant at ₹1,10,000.

Managing director Rajiv Bajaj parried a question on the investment that has gone into the bike citing issues of competition but said, "We have pumped in really big amount into the bike and that there is no point for the competition to try to ape us."

When asked about market potential, he said the present capacity is only 10,000 a month and this will touch 40,000 by the end of this fiscal. Sky is the limit as the monthly bike sales are about 0.9 million, making it the world's largest and of which EVs are around 2%. Given the success we continue to enjoy in the CNG three-wheeler space that's 75%, logically CNG bikes can easily overtake EVs. Having said that let's get a sense of the market after the national launch from the third quarter to assess the customer feedback. From tomorrow the bike will be available at all dealers in Maharashtra and Gujarat.

Govt unlikely to do away with angel tax, say experts

DIPAK MONDAL @New Delhi

EVEN though the Department for Promotion of Industries and Internal Trade (DPIIT) has recommended the finance ministry to remove angel tax, it is unlikely that the government may pay attention to such recommendations.

The DPIIT Secretary in a press briefing on Thursday said his department has recommended removal of Angel Tax to finance ministry and that it had done so in the past as well. "Ultimately, the decision has to be taken by the ministry," he told reporters on Thursday.

However, tax experts are of the view that the government is unlikely to remove angel tax, which is levied on unlisted companies raising capital through issue of shares.

Rohinton Sidhwa, partner, Deloitte India, told TNIE that the debate has died down because the government has largely fixed the issue though it's an irritating thing because it involves a lot of documentation.

"Companies have, however, realised that they have to do the paperwork, but at least the issue has gone away," said Sidhwa. Shruti KP, partner, taxation, AZB & Partners, says the likelihood of any major change (in Angel Tax) is quite limited. If at all, the government may try and provide more exceptions, rather than removing the angel tax provision entirely, she says.

However, she admits that the angel tax is an unnecessary hassle and tax burden for businesses including for startups, especially given that it now applies even to investments made by non-resident investors. "The so-called exceptions do not really help very many businesses. As a tax professional therefore, I do hope the MOF accepts the recommendation made by DPIIT," says Shruti KP. Angel tax was introduced in 2012, and it is the tax that unlisted companies are liable to pay on the capital they raise through issue of shares, and it is calculated on the basis of the premium amount received above the fair market value of the shares.

IT industry body Nasscom in its pre-budget meeting with the finance minister has raised the issue of angel tax. It said very few start-ups can avail the exemption from angel tax and even if a start-up avails exemption, it is not useful. "The end-use restrictions for utilising exempted investments are constraining and impact the business of start-ups," it added.

HYDROGEN MISSION

New norms for funding infra, setting standards

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

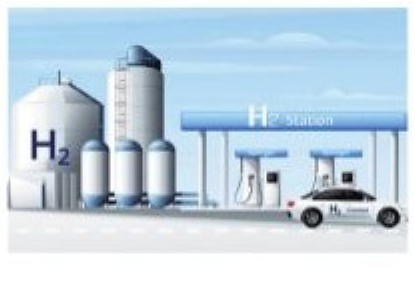
THE Ministry of New and Renewable Energy (MNRE) has unveiled scheme guidelines aimed at funding testing facilities, infrastructure, and institutional support to develop standards and regulatory frameworks under the National Green Hydrogen Mission.

With a total budget of ₹200 crore allocated until the financial year 2025-26, the scheme targets addressing gaps in existing testing facilities for components, technologies, and processes across the Green Hydrogen value chain. It will facilitate the establishment of new testing facilities and the enhancement of existing ones to ensure secure and efficient operations.

"The scheme aims to identify and bridge gaps in the current testing facilities for components, technologies, and processes in the Green Hydrogen value chain. It will support the creation of new testing facilities and upgrade existing ones to ensure safe and reliable operations," stated MNRE in a statement.

The National Green Hydrogen Mission (NGHM), launched on January 4, 2023, with a budget of ₹19,744 crore, aims to position India as a global hub for the production, usage, and export of Green Hydrogen and its derivatives. This initiative is a crucial step towards India's goal of achieving self-reliance through clean energy and will serve as a model for the global transition to clean energy.

According to government sources, the National Institute of Solar Energy (NISE) will serve as the Scheme Implementation Agency (SIA). NISE's responsibilities will include developing robust quality and performance testing facilities to ensure the sustainability, safety, and high standards of Green Hydrogen (GH2) production and trade.



Fintech funding falls 59% to $795 mn in H1, 2024

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

IN the first half of this year (January-June 2024), the fintech sector witnessed a declining trend in funding as they could manage to raise only $795 million, a 59% fall compared to $1.93 billion raised in the same period last year.

The sector garnered $896.7 million in H2, 2023, according to market intelligence platform Tracxn. In its semi-annual report, the firm said the funding in late-stage rounds stood at $551 million, a 63% decline from $1.5 billion the sector raised in H1, 2023.

Neha Singh, co-founder at Tracxn, said, "The slowdown in funding reflects the need for a cautious outlook and strategic planning among start-ups and investors. Our Fintech sector remains dynamic, and we are optimistic that a supportive policy environment and technological advancements will create new opportunities for growth and innovation in the near future."

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) recently came up with the Framework for Self Regulatory Organisation for FinTechs, and this is to promote self-regulation in the industry to adhere to the government rules. "This can potentially help bring trust and stability to the sector and highlight the importance of Fintech start-ups in the country's financial system," the report said.

The funding in both the seed-stage and early-stage too declined in the first half of this year. About $179 million was raised in early-stage rounds, which is a 50% decline from $361 million raised in H1 2023.

The first quarter of 2024 (January-March) has been the major contributor to funding so far, as the quarter witnessed $582 million fundraising, and Q2, 2024 saw only $214 million in funding. Alternative Lending, RegTech, and Banking Tech were the top-performing sectors in this space, and Perfios is the only start-up that turned unicorn in this space. With 37% of total funding (about $297 million), Bengaluru leads the space in terms of total funds raised in this period, followed by Mumbai ($231 mn) and Pune ($106 mn).

H1 2024 witnessed six acquisitions, which is again a 66% decline compared to 18 acquisitions in H1 of 2023, and a total of five companies went public in the first half year of 2024. No IPOs were observed in the same period last year.

CHINA

REGULATOR TO CLAMP DOWN ON CAPITAL MKT FRAUD

The securities regulator in China vowed on Friday to clamp down harder on financial fraud, saying it is pushing for harsher punishment against lawbreakers. The China Securities Regulatory Commission and some other government agencies jointly published a set of guidelines against capital markets cheating, their latest efforts to address a deep-rooted issue that has plagued the world's second-biggest stock market. The statement, which promised coordinated crackdowns against corporate fraudsters and their accomplices, comes as regulators are investigating the role of PricewaterhouseCoopers as the auditor of China Evergrande Group, whose main China unit was found cheating. As part of the efforts to head off misbehaviour, the CSRC said it has been working to revise laws toward harsher punishment.

JAPAN

HOUSEHOLD SPENDING FALLS UNEXPECTEDLY

Household spending in Japan fell unexpectedly for the month of May as higher prices continued to squeeze consumers' purchasing power, data showed on Friday. It complicated the central bank's decision on how soon to raise interest rates. The Bank of Japan (BOJ) will highlight how pay increases are spreading, including at smaller firms, in a report due later this month, sources have told Reuters, a trend that strengthens the case for a near-term interest rate hike. Friday's soft reading underscores the fragile nature of consumer activity, and casts doubt on the BOJ's view a solid economic recovery will keep inflation durably around its 2% target - a prerequisite for raising interest rates. Consumer spending fell 1.8% in May from a year earlier, far short of the median market forecast for a 0.1% uptick, as rising food prices weighed on spending for other items, data showed.

THAILAND

JUNE INFLATION FALLS OVER PREVIOUS MONTH

Thailand's inflation in June fell 0.62%, driven by food and non-alcoholic beverages, from 0.48% in May. This was due to major price hikes in essential items such as rice, flour, and flour-based products, fresh food items such as eggs and fresh fruits, and fresh vegetables. The prices of meals prepared at home and outside, including ready-made meals, rice with curry, and ordered dishes, as well as non-alcoholic beverages like instant coffee and sweetened beverages, also contributed to the rise. Ingredients such as sugar, coconut milk, and curry paste saw price increases as well. However, several items such as pork, lime, mackerel, vegetable oil, grilled chicken, tangerines, red onions, and garlic, experienced price drops. Other categories excluding food and beverages saw a 0.71% rise due to major price hikes in critical items.

India has more compounder cos than China: Report

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

MARCELLUS Investment Managers said on Friday that among emerging markets, both India and China have produced a significant number of consistent compounders — companies that have consistently achieved 10% YoY revenue growth and 10% RoCE over a decade.

However, India not only surpasses China in number of consistent compounders but also outperformed by delivering more than double the shareholder returns as against its Chinese counterparts.

Shareholder returns

India not only surpasses China in no. of compounders but also outperformed by delivering more than double shareholder returns as against its Chinese companies

India has 162 compounders as against 126 in China. This is despite the fact that the Chinese economy and its capital market are much bigger than India.

The finding stated that over the long term, India's equity market (Nifty50) has given superior returns as against any other market in the world. In the last 20 years, Nifty50 has given an annual return of 11.6%. The US market (S&P 500) comes next at 9.9%. China's Shanghai Composite has an annual rerun of 5.9% in past 20 years.

Marcellus said as global businesses look to diversify their supply chains away from China, India is poised to benefit. Key sectors like smartphones, active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs), and medical devices are expected to drive this growth, potentially contributing an additional $300 billion to India's economy, it added.

The report said 5,000 companies that sit below the 800 most profitable companies in India are growing at a faster pace. It also stated that the share of the top 20 companies in overall PAT of India Inc (listed players) reached its peak during Covid but fell sharply after that.

HC asks Byju's to maintain status quo

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday restrained edtech firm Byju's from proceeding with second rights issue till the NCLT decides on the plea by a group of investors.

Four investors had objected to Byju's second rights issue saying this would dilute their holding. Few days ago, a single judge of the Karnataka High Court had set aside the interim NCLT order that had restrained Byju's from launching a second rights issue.

The NCLT has been directed to decide the application filed by investors by July 31.

Earlier, Think and Learn Pvt Limited (Byju's) and Byju Raveendran had filed writ petitions against the order of NCLT dated 12 June 2024. The High Court has remanded the matter to the NCLT for fresh consideration within 2 weeks from 4 July 2024.

NCLT to revisit case

NCLT has been directed to decide application filed by investors by July 31. Earlier, Think and Learn and Byju Raveendran had filed pleas against the order of NCLT. HC has remanded the matter to the NCLT for consideration.

"During the proceedings of remand and till the decision which may be taken by the NCLT, the parties shall maintain status quo with regard to the subject matter dispute as obtained on today," the order stated.

The respondents shall not make allotment of shares in the interregnum, to be subject to the final order which may be passed by the NCLT, it added.

Also, if any transactions took place from July 2-4, 2024, they will remain subject to final order that may be passed by the NCLT and the rights in that regard will be governed accordingly.

Airtel denies data breach reports, calls it attempt to tarnish image

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

BHARTI AIRTEL, India's second-largest telecom service provider, has refuted reports of a data breach compromising customer data.

In response to allegations that personal details of more than 37.5 crore Indian customers were for sale on a popular hacking forum, Airtel dismissed these claims as an unfounded attempt to damage its reputation.

"There has been a report alleging that Airtel customer data has been compromised. This is nothing short of a desperate attempt to tarnish Airtel's reputation by vested interests. We have done a thorough investigation and can confirm that there has been no breach whatsoever from Airtel systems," said the company in a statement.

According to the claims, details including phone numbers, emails, addresses, and Aadhaar numbers of 375 million Airtel customers were supposedly available for sale on the dark web. The report surfaced from Dark Web Informer, a source that monitors activities on the dark web.

The company highlighted that a hacker using the alias 'xenZen' was attempting to sell a database containing information of over 37.5 crore Airtel India customers for $50,000 (nearly ₹41 lakh) in cryptocurrency.

Was Zuckerberg forewarned of Threads' shortcomings, does that matter?

RONNIE KURIAKOSE @Kochi

AS Meta's Threads marks its first anniversary on July 6, one thing is clear: the social media platform is far from the 'Twitter killer' it set out to be. Despite amassing 175 million monthly active users, Threads can't yet boast the same vibrancy as the popular micro-blogging platform, now called X. And nowhere is this inadequacy more profound than in India.

Meta India team had feared this. In the lead-up to the launch last year, on July 6, 2023, they had expressed apprehensions to Meta CEO Mark Zuckerberg, TNIE has learnt. However, they were not heeded.

'Poorly executed'

"We were unhappy with the product — its viability, lacklustreness of its functions, and its hurried, overnight launch," said a Meta India insider. "That said, it was a smart business move. The plan was to capitalise on the unrest at Twitter after Elon Musk's takeover and the growing resentment towards some of his proposals."

Indeed, the months prior saw Musk, new CEO of Twitter, fire most of the employees, rename the platform X, restore previously banned accounts, introduce fees and firewalls, and overhaul the algorithm and content moderation policies. It was a time of much upheaval.

"The timing was advantageous, but the execution was poor," the source added. Though the India team had warned their counterparts in the US, Zuckerberg's instructions were to press on. The Facebook creator's decision was likely influenced by his past successes in the sub-continent.

> The launch of Reels is noteworthy as it was deployed in haste, just weeks after the Indian govt banned TikTok. It was a big hit, and the subsequent campaign, Made on Reels, helped draw influencers and brands to the platform in droves
>
> Meta source

A testing ground

India has always been a testing ground for new digital products. Meta has designed and rolled out several products here before making it available in other countries. Facebook Lite, WhatsApp Pay and Instagram Reels are some examples.

"Of them, the launch of Reels is noteworthy as it too was deployed in haste, just weeks after the Indian government banned TikTok. It was a big hit, and the subsequent campaign, Made on Reels, helped draw influencers and brands to the platform in droves," the Meta source said.

Indeed, the Made on Reels campaign remains one of the biggest that Meta has ever done, perhaps rivalled only by the hoopla around the launch of Threads. "We envisioned a similar success, but the product we had was simply an upgraded version of Orkut. I deleted the application from my phone after just a week," the source added.

A flash in the pan?

The same is the case for a majority of the 100 million who downloaded the application in the first week of its launch, only to delete it later. Data from SimilarWeb, a web traffic analytics firm, indicates that the number of Threads users plummeted by 50% within just 24 hours of its launch, and fell to 10% of the initial user base by the end of the month.

Now, most of Threads' 175 million monthly active users are made up of flyby traffic from Meta's other applications. No scroll on Instagram is without reminders of Threads' existence, a 'feature' users have come to detest. But pundits are unwilling to dismiss Threads just yet. After all, it hails from the Meta family, a tech behemoth. Also, what is one year in the life of a digital product?

₹11 crore reward for T20 WC-winning team

Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde on Friday announced a cash reward of ₹11 crore for the Indian cricket team which won the T20 World Cup. The announcement was made in the Vidhan Bhavan in Mumbai where four Mumbai players from the team — Rohit Sharma, Suryakumar Yadav, Yashasvi Jaiswal and Shivam Dubey — were felicitated.

Gukesh to train at an undisclosed location: Coach Prasanna

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

D GUKESH will train at an undisclosed location as he gears up for the chess world championship final against Ding Liren later this year in Singapore.

''A couple of weeks ago, Gukesh started preparing for the World Championship in earnest," his coach Vishnu Prasanna told this daily. "Between tournaments, he has been training with Poland's Grzegorz Gajewski. When not playing a tournament they will train one to one at an undisclosed location."

Gajewski, a former second of Viswanathan Anand, has been associated with Gukesh and was by his side when the Indian teen won the Candidates in Canada in April. This will be the first time since 2013 that an Indian will be featuring in the final (Anand had lost to Magnus Carlsen).

While Singapore beat out Chennai to earn the right to host FIDE's blue-riband event, Prasanna was of the opinion that his ward was mentally prepared to play anywhere. ''Gukesh was mentally prepared to play the world championship at any place. In Singapore he can play in a relaxed manner, but Chennai also would have been fine,'' said Prasanna. ''Gukesh has had excellent results at Chennai.

In the Chess Olympiad, Gukesh won an individual gold on the top board and his team won bronze. He also won the Chennai GM tournament with 4.5/7. He pipped Arjun Erigaisi (4.5) for the top spot, thanks to a better tie-break. So he would have been happy to play in Chennai. But yes, Singapore being a neutral venue would be good for both the players. The focus will only be on the chest part, I guess."

Prasanna opined that Gajewski 'has something in mind' when it comes to working on an area apropos the final.

"I have not suggested any one particular area to work upon. Gajewski has something in mind and they will be doing a very long term preparation. So we'll work on all parts of the game in order to play well and be strong. It will be very thorough preparation, touching upon all aspects of the game keeping in mind the magnitude of the tournament. That's why we have started early and there's a lot of time to work upon,'' insisted Prasanna.

Right now, Gukesh is in action at the Superbet Classic in Bucharest. The 18-year-old is currently in joint second spot with 4.5 points. He split points with Dutchman Anish Giri in the eighth and penultimate round of the tournament.

OLMO-NUMENTAL WIN

Attacking midfielder steals show as he scores before assisting the winning goal to send Spain into the last four; defender Dani Carvajal sent off in dying minutes but they hold on

AGENCIES @ Stuttgart

DANI Olmo, on as an early substitute for Pedri, both created and scored to put Spain into the semifinals of the European Championship. Spain, who last won the Euros in 2012, had seemed like they were on course to win it in normal time. But Germany, who had a whole raft of chances to level proceedings, finally equalised in the 89th minute thanks to a first-time finish from Florian Wirtz.

Deep into the second half of extra-time, Spain came up with their own late show to seal the deal. Olmo flung in a tempting cross that was headed home by another substitute, Mikel Merino. Germany had more chances to send the game into a shootout but just couldn't find the back of the net. Niclas Fullkrug, who had already scored twice in the competition, should have probably headed home when unmarked. In regulation time, Kai Havertz chipped the ball just over the ball with keeper Unai Simon off his line.

But Spain won't care.

Spain began proceedings on the front foot but were on the receiving end of a couple of feisty looking tackles, especially from Toni Kroos. He was perhaps a touch lucky to escape a yellow card on a few occasions. One of those tackles ultimately put paid to Pedri's night. It's likely Spain won't have him for the reminder of the tournament.

After that, Alvaro Morata, Havertz, Fabian Ruiz and Olmo all went close. After the break, Olmo did break open the game. A clever run from the right by the impressive Lamine Yamal had the hosts on the back foot. When presented with multiple chances, including taking his man on, he opted to tee up the onrushing Olmo who passed it into the net from just inside the box.

Content with the one goal advantage, Spain increasingly opted to let Germany make the play. With minutes to go, Wirtz punished them. However, in the end, Spain had the last laugh.

Result: Spain 2-1 Germany (a.e.t)

HIGH-OCTANE CONTESTS

A very strong Switzerland stand between England and the last four. In the last of the quarters, Turkiye face Netherlands. A look...

England vs Switzerland | 9.30 PM

NEW FORMATION AHOY

With Marc Guehi suspended an imbalanced left-wing, England could have a change of formation. They may well bring back three at the back, with Bukayo Saka moving from right wing to left-wing back. There could also be a recall for Trent Alexander Arnold at right wing back with Kyle Walker moving to the back.

SWISS, A WELL OILED MACHINE

Swiss, over the last decade, had earned a reputation for a solid but unspectacular tournament team. Off late, though, they have developed some pincers capable of hurting the best sides. At this event, their defenders and midfielders have guarded against transitions while their inter-linking attackers have managed to create goal-scoring opportunities. Dan Ndoye and Michel Aebischer have been fun to watch for them.

GAKPO AMONG THE GOALS

If Netherlands are to go all the way, they will have to end up thanking the efficiency of Cody Gakpo in front of the net. While Xavi Simons and Tijani Rejinders have made a lot of the play for them, it's Gakpo's direct running at the defenders that's caused teams a lot of problems so far. With Turkiye far too open at the back, do not be surprised if something similar happens.

ATTACKING TRIDENT

Merih Demiral is suspended but they will welcome back influential captain, Hakan Calhanoglu in midfield. It's further forward where they have had joy this time. Keenan Yildiz, Arda Guler and Baris Yilmaz can dribble but can also occupy different positions on the pitch. Picking them up can be a challenge because of their pace and movement.

Martinez becomes the hero for Argentina once again

AFP @ Houston

EMILIANO Martinez was the hero, saving two penalties and Lionel Messi's blushes as holders Argentina defeated Ecuador in a penalty shoot-out to book their place in the Copa America semifinals on Thursday.

A Lisandro Martinez header had put world champions Argentina 1-0 up ten minutes before half-time but Kevin Rodriguez headed in a stoppage-time leveller for Ecuador, who had risen to the occasion in front of 69,456 fans at Houston's NRG Stadium. Messi missed the opening penalty, chipping against the bar, but thanks to heroics from Martinez, Argentina recovered to win the shootout 4-2 and progress into the semi-finals. Messi's botched 'panenka' brought back memories of his miss in the shoot-out loss to Chile in the 2016 Copa final but luckily for him goalkeeper Martinez was in the mood to repeat his own past.

He pulled off superb diving saves to deny Angel Mena and Alan Minda and get his team in front before Nicolas Otamendi slotted home the decisive fourth kick. It was a major scare for the tournament favourites but not for the first time they had their goalkeeper to thank for the relief of victory

Martinez had saved three spot-kicks in a 3-2 penalty shootout victory for Argentina over Colombia in the semi-final of the 2021 Copa America and famously saved two in the World Cup final win against France in Qatar. "I told the lads before the shootout that I wasn't ready to go home, this team deserves to go all the way to the final," the goalkeeper told Argentine television after the team had celebrated on the field.

Colombia have been purring so far and a reward for topping a group with Brazil in it is a chance to advance to the semi-finals. They have scored in every game and took down US in the second round.

URUGUAY VS BRAZIL | 6.30 AM ON SUNDAY

Under the tutorship of Marcelo Bielsa, this new look team have shed their defence first mentality to the exact opposite, almost. With Darwin Nunez bang in form and the likes of Fede Valverde getting accustomed to the Bielsa way, Brazil will have their hands full. To complicate matters for the Selecao, they will be without the suspended Vini Jr. Could be the final before the final.

DEFENDING champion Carlos Alcaraz came back to eliminate Frances Tiafoe 5-7, 6-2, 4-6, 7-6 (2), 6-2 to reach Wimbledon's fourth round on Friday in an entertaining match between two pals that was filled with moments of brilliance and a series of momentum swings.

The third-seeded Alcaraz was outplayed for stretches by No. 29 Tiafoe but surged to the finish and improved to 12-1 for his career in fifth sets. Tiafoe fell to 6-13 in that category. Tiafoe was not able to pull out what would have been a surprising victory for someone who arrived at Wimbledon with a sprained ligament in his right knee and a losing record this season. He sure came close, though.

Vastrakar, Jemimah efforts not enough as India fall short

KALYANI MANGALE @Chennai

POOJA Vastrakar went wicketless in the first innings of the Test match against South Africa at the MA Chidambaram Stadium in Chennai. Off-spinners Sneh Rana and Deepti Sharma shared 10 wickets between them, which was expected to happen on the spin-friendly pitch. While the spin duo had to toil for wickets in the second innings, Vastrakar bowled 16 overs and took a wicket of debutant Annerie Derecksen. For someone who dominated the previous two Tests with the bat and ball, the Test at Chepauk was a sub-par affair.

So when Vastrakar came to bowl the second over from the pavilion end in the first T20I on Friday, she was itching to get going. Renuka Singh Thakur had already given Laura Wolvaardt an opportunity to open her arms for a boundary down the ground. From all indications and given how Tazmin Brits has historically struggled in the first few overs, it was clear that the South African captain was the one who had to run the batting in the powerplay. The first ball Wolvaardt faced off Vastrakar, she was beaten by the late away moment that even bamboozled the batter who was trying to whack it over covers. The next ball, Wolvaardt got a short ball but could only manage a run. Brits, who had started to give everything in her capacity to score a run, was running out of patience. Vastrakar, meanwhile, kept doing what she is known for- keeping her length tight. Brits could not get a single run from that over.

While Thakur was heavily leaking runs at the other end in the power play , mostly due to some audacious shot making from the captain, Vastrakar came to deliver her second over. Brits continued to play dot balls as if she turned for a Test match a few days later, but it was due to the genius of one Pooja Vastrakar. After playing eight dot balls in a row, Brits finally pushed for a quick single. Frustrated by this pressure created by the pacer, Wolvaardt tried to slap one over the point only for a substitute fielder to drop a catch. A mistime hit for one and another skiddy delivery that went for no runs followed. Vastrakar had given away just three runs in her two overs. Nothing fancy from her and yet the opposition had no idea how to respond. Even though it was not the red ball fixture, from memory, her bowling was like what the Australian vice-captain had described in Mumbai. "It's just relentless. And she's almost robotic. She just runs in and hits the spot time after time and puts so much pressure on the batters," McGrath had said in January.

By the time she came back for her second spell, South Africa were cruising at 8.73 runs per over and India desperately needed a breakthrough. Despite Brits and Marizaane Kapp completing their half-centuries in Vastrakar's third over with a boundary, she drew a top edge from Brits only for Richa Ghosh to drop a dolly. That was the only expensive over (14 runs) Vastrakar bowled. She eventually finished with 4-0-23-2 as South Africa posted 189/4. It proved to be enough despite the fighting fifty from Jemimah Rodrigues as the Proteas registered a 12-run win. On a night every bowler across both teams went for runs, Vastrakar was the only one to operate at less than 6 RPO. That is a positive India will take from Friday.

Brief scores: SA 189/4 in 20 ovs (Brits 81, Kapp 57; Pooja 2/23,) bt India 177/4 in 20 ovs (Jemimah Rodrigues 53 n.o, Smriti Mandhana 47).

Next-gen players take guard in Zimbabwe

GOMESH S @Chennai

IT'S been less than 48 hours since Indian fans brought Mumbai to a standstill. The thousands of fans, who packed the streets of Marine drive, in the stands at Wankhede, celebrating the T20 World Cup-winning men's team, are probably still hung over in the euphoria they experienced. But, cricket, as they say, is a giant wheel that never stops.

Barely two days after the Indian contingent landed in the country with the ICC trophy, another men's team will be in action and that too, in the same format. This time, against Zimbabwe in Harare. This is nothing new at this point. After the 2022 T20 World Cup triumph, the England men stayed back in Australia for an inconsequential ODI series, which they lost 3-0. And that England team actually included nine members from the title-winning squad.

In Harare, however, none of the WC squad members will take the field, at least not in the first game. Some of them are expected to join the squad in Zimbabwe, but by and large, it is a second-string team led by Shubman Gill. But there is more. With Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli and Ravindra Jadeja bidding adieu to the format, there are quite a few spots that is up for grabs. And a number of youngsters, who had been proving themselves consistently while desperately waiting for an opportunity, will finally get an chance to make an impression. Among them are two men who have batted through age-group cricket for Punjab — Gill and Abhishek Sharma. While the former has established himself in the other two formats, this is his chance in the shortest one. And joining him would be one of his best friends from childhood Abhishek, who took the 2024 IPL season by storm with Sunrisers Hyderabad. They are not alone. Ruturaj Gaikwad, the likely No 3 on Saturday, and Yashasvi Jaiswal, who will miss the game because he was in Mumbai, are also in contention. Then come the likes of Riyan Parag, Sanju Samson, Shivam Dube, Dhruv Jurel, Rinku Singh, Jitesh Sharma — all of them fighting for a place in the middle-order. India's resources and depth in batting is well-known, but now the competition is all the more visible as apart from Rinku, no one has cemented their spot in the middle-order. Although the future of the team is impossible to predict, but these five games could give a glimpse of players who could be in the mix going forward. "There are a lot of young players in the team, including myself. I think, in terms of that, we just want to give players the experience of what it is like to play at the international level," said Gill.

Global think tank finds the Indian food system resilient to achieve zero hunger target, warns of corporate pressure

Local solution to rising HUNGER

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

A global think tank has just recognised India's food system as resilient enough to potentially achieve the goal of zero hunger. It said India's food policy still promotes local procurement and distribution systems to support small farmers and secure food security of a large number of consumers by keeping them immune to global food price fluctuations.

However, it said India's current system is under threat as state-brokered partnerships between small agroecological producers and industrial global agribusiness aggressively promoting multinationals food conglomerates through policy and finance may derail the country's journey towards achieving the zero hunger target by 2030.

Experts say these partnerships are being made under pressure from biased global trade agreements such as the World Trade Organisation's Agreement on Agriculture (AOA). The report points out that these agreements favour wealthy countries, which provide disproportionate subsidies to increase production and dump their produce in the Global South, which comprises poor and developing nations.

The International Panel of Experts on Sustainable Food Systems (IPES-Food), is a global think tank that guides action for sustainable food systems around the world. It prods countries to make policy shifts to increase resilience in the face of growing hunger.

It cited a number of best practices of India and other countries in its latest report, 'Food From Somewhere — Building food security and resilience through territorial markets'.

It underlined that the current industrial food chain failed to live up to expectations at a time when the world faced a series of shocks like the Covid-19 pandemic, Russian invasion into Ukraine and escalating climatic shocks that triggered supply chain chaos, volatile food prices, empty shelves and a surge in hunger levels.

According to the report, these shocks showed the limitations of the global industrial chains in a crisis-prone world. The report calls for shifts in policy to reverse the current trend by promoting sustainable and agroecological food systems.

It suggested redirection of public procurement to support sustainable small-scale producers, and shift in subsidies to invest in infrastructure and networks that underpin territorial markets.

Further, it recommended providing protection to local markets from corporate takeover; and encouraging sustainable, biodiverse farming and diverse diets.

Territorial markets are defined as a local food web, which includes public markets, street vendors, cooperatives, urban agriculture and online direct sales. They rely on smaller-scale food producers and vendors to serve communities. These markets successfully demonstrated the benefits of food security – including access to more diverse and nutritious foods, high degrees of resilience and adaptability to shocks, accessible prices, and environmental sustainability.

IMPROVING FOOD SYSTEMS

CORPORATE SUPPLY CHAINS		TERRITORIAL MARKETS
Damage local economies, threaten food security by relying on a handful of commodities	FOOD SECURITY	Play a crucial role in providing healthy, affordable food for all
Promote standardised diets and ultra-processed foods	HEALTH	Promote dietary diversity and nutrient-rich foods
Exploit food and farm workers; exclude small-scale producers; control resources	EQUITY	Allow producers and food workers retain control over livelihoods; steadier incomes
Are increasingly vulnerable to shocks due to lengthy and opaque supply chains	ADAPTABILITY	Highly responsive and adaptable in the face of shocks despite adverse policies
Destroy ecological integrity, diversity through high-input, energy-intensive production	ENVIRONMENT	Foster low-input, biodiverse small-scale food production
Limit participation through top-down control; undermine cultural diversity through standardisation	COMMUNITY	Build trust and connection within communities and play a key role in sustaining food cultures

Rising hunger

The report advocates more localised and resilient food provision to achieve the goal of zero hunger by 2030. Nearly 30% of the world's population is facing food insecurity, while 600 million additional people are projected to be facing hunger by 2030, putting the world's zero hunger goal further away than ever.

The report takes a comprehensive review of the current global food systems and finds that localised food supply chains offer a resilient and equitable approach to food security.

It quotes India's ambitious public distribution system designed to support farmers and 800 million people's food security. Besides, targeted public procurement schemes such as the breakfast and noon meal scheme in schools that source from local smallholders, provide ample opportunity to establish another level of territorial market.

The report underlines the need of a fundamental shift towards close-to-home food supply chains (territorial markets) offering a more resilient, robust, and equitable approach to food security.

These territorial markets support the livelihoods of millions of small-scale producers, sustain diverse food cultures, boost biodiversity, promote community cooperation, and help feed up to 70% of the world's population while using less than one-third of agricultural land and resources. While corporate chains broke down during the Covid-19 pandemic, territorial markets quickly adapted their operations and supply methods to keep communities fed, it said.

For example, in India – where a sudden lockdown sparked a worker exodus from big cities and widespread risks of food insecurity – the Kerala government set up 1,000 Janakeeya Hotels run by the all-women network Kudumbashree, providing an average of 70,000 subsidised meals every day. The produce came from the Kudumbashree local production programme, which also sells directly to consumers in monthly markets.

Unfortunately, these place-based territorial food markets are under attack. They are penalised by trade and investment policies and agricultural subsidies, and often lack adequate infrastructure such as sanitation and storage facilities, the study found.

"The evidence is clear – localised food systems are vital for feeding an increasingly hungry planet and preventing food insecurity and famine," said Shalmali Guttal, IPES-Food expert, India.

"Bigger is not always better! It's time for governments to act decisively to use public procurement to bolster sustainable small-scale producers, provide local and regional food markets with the infrastructure they need, and safeguard them from corporate dominance," Shalmali Guttal added.

A separate global survey of urban food insecurity estimates that over 3/4 of the world's food insecure population are now in urban and peri-urban regions (1.7 billion people). The survey called for targeted policies to address urban and peri-urban hunger.

Bacterial hotspots

In your apple from seed to peel

USHA PERI @ Vizag

NEXT time you pick your apples, remember it is not just about the crunch; it is about the bacteria. Recent studies conducted by researchers from Graz University of Technology, Austria, have shed light on the diverse bacterial communities residing within these ubiquitous fruits.

According to their findings, an average 240-grams apple harbours approximately 100 million bacteria. Different parts of the apple (the stem, peel, fruit pulp, seeds, and calyx) host distinct bacterial communities. Fruit pulp and seeds were found to be bacterial hotspots, while the peel showed lower colonisation.

The study compared organic and conventional apples, revealing distinct differences in their microbial profiles. The bacterial communities in apples were primarily composed of Proteobacteria (80%), Bacteroidetes (9%), Actinobacteria (5%), and Firmicutes (3%). Despite the similar overall structure, almost 40% of bacterial genera and orders differed significantly between organic and conventional apples. While both types contain similar total counts of bacteria, the types of bacteria present vary significantly. Conventional apples often host Escherichia coli and Shigella bacteria, although in low quantities, whereas these pathogens are notably absent in organic apples. Conversely, organic apples exhibit a more diverse and balanced microbial community, including beneficial bacteria such as Lactobacilli, which are associated with probiotic benefits.

The storage conditions post-harvest also influence the apple microbiome. Apples stored in controlled atmospheres show reduced growth of pathogenic fungi like Penicillium and Botrytis compared to those stored under ambient conditions. This suggests that storage practices can impact not only the fruit's physical condition but also its microbial ecosystem.

Geographical location plays a role as well, shaping the microbial composition of apples grown in different regions. This diversity not only affects the flavour profile but also potentially influences their health-promoting properties.

One notable microbial player in organic apples is Methylobacterium, which enhances the biosynthesis of strawberry-like flavour compounds. This finding suggests that the microbial community in apples contributes not only to their nutritional content but also to their sensory appeal. While these insights into the microbiome are promising, the researchers noted that further research is needed to fully understand how microbial diversity in apples translates into health benefits for consumers. They stated that understanding these dynamics could potentially lead to improved fruit storage practices, better crop management strategies, and enhanced consumer awareness of the nutritional and microbial aspects of fresh produce.

In sum, next time you enjoy an apple, remember that it is more than just a crunchy snack; it is a complex ecosystem of microbes that adds depth to both its flavour and potential health benefits.

100 MILLION BACTERIA IN ONE APPLE

Consuming a whole apple includes an approximate uptake of 100 million bacteria. However, freshly harvested, organically managed apples have a significantly more diverse and distinct microbiota as compared to the conventional ones. Organic apples have favourable health effects for the consumer, the plant and environment

WAKE-UP CALL FROM NEW STUDY ON HUMID HEAT

ISSAC JAMES MANAYATH @Chennai

THE Southwest monsoon that has just covered the entire nation, bringing relief from the unprecedented heatwaves this year, but it might not have been as effective in regions with high humidity. Blame it on the warm spells and humid heat extremes, which are becoming more widespread during the monsoon season due to global warming.

The season's relatively higher humidity, when combined with high temperatures during warm spells, or monsoon breaks, can cause extreme heat stress. This humid heat can elevate body temperatures to potentially fatal levels, scientists warn.

A recent paper by a group of researchers at Cornell University said there has been a consistent increase in areas exposed to extreme levels of humid heat during monsoons in India between 1951 and 2020. As of 2020, close to 43 million sq km, where an estimated 67 crore people live, suffer from extreme moist heat during monsoon-break.

In the Indo-Gangetic plains, as many as 3.7 to 4.6 crore people face elevated risk of moist heat, which is majorly driven by irrigation practices, the researchers said.

With the projected increase in warm spells, a widespread increase in moist heat can pose a significant challenge to the health of people, especially those who work outdoors, the researchers said.

"The consistent increase in exposed area (of close to 43 million sq km above 31°C can adversely impact the labour-intensive work during the monsoon break," the authors wrote in the study published in the journal Earth's Future.

Humidity is the villain

The relatively higher humidity levels are what make the monsoon breaks feel hotter. Global warming is causing temperatures to increase, not just during summers, but across seasons. And humidity affects the human body's ability to fight off the heat.

On a monsoon day, a temperature of 35°C can cause the human body to heat up faster than under the same temperature on a dry summer day. Sweating helps our bodies regulate temperature. When it's hot, we sweat, and when the sweat evaporates, it takes away some of the heat and helps cool our bodies.

But when the air is humid, it is already saturated with moisture and cannot absorb any more moisture. As such, sweat evaporates very slowly on a hot and humid day, thereby keeping our bodies hotter for a longer period. This can lead to heat exhaustion or heat stroke if precautions aren't taken.

Wet-Bulb Globe Temperature

The Cornell researchers found that the Indo-Gangetic plains and the eastern coast of India were most vulnerable to moist heat extremes with wet-bulb temperatures reaching 38°C. The Wet-Bulb Globe Temperature (WBT) is used to estimate the heat stress under direct sunlight. It is measured by wrapping a wet cloth over the bulb of a thermometer. The evaporation of water from the cloth cools the thermometer, causing the mercury to dip. But when the air is humid, evaporation is very slow. In such cases, mercury readings remain closer to the dry temperature, which is on the higher side.

The wet bulb method is used to calculate heat stress in humans exposed to direct sunlight. Researchers agree that a wet-bulb temperature of 35°C is the safe limit for humans. Zach Schlader, a physiologist at Indiana University Bloomington told MIT Technology Review that beyond this point, human bodies won't be able to lose heat sufficiently to maintain their core temperature.

Call to protect outdoor workers

The study showed that people in the Indo-Gangetic plain and eastern coast are experiencing humid heat beyond the safe limits for human survivability.

It highlighted, in particular, the case of agriculture and construction workers, who are exposed to direct sunlight for much of their working hours. In contrast, summer has minimal impact on the area exposed to extreme moist heat.

The researchers called for a revision of outdoor working hours, especially in regions experiencing extreme moist heat during monsoon.

They also highlighted how rising temperatures negatively affect labour productivity. "For instance, a 3°C increase in global warming can reduce labour productivity by 7% and contribute to at least 4% reduction of GDP in India, which leads to inflation in crop prices," the authors warned.

Having risen to fame with his role of APJ Abdul Kalam in Rocket Boys, Arjun Radhakrishnan is currently basking in the glory of starring in Ullozhukku which has Parvathy Thiruvothu in the lead

'I'm just taking small steps'

MONIKA MONALISA

WHEN actor Arjun Radhakrishnan is asked what he is up to these days, his answer is simple: exploring. By this he means he is focusing on doing 'good roles' that make him happy. Radhakrishnan, who rose to fame with his role of essaying former President APJ Abdul Kalam in the series Rocket Boys, was recently seen in the Malayalam movie, Ullozhukku. "It's very heartening to see that a film like this is being received well, especially because it's not a commercial high-paced drama. A lot of people watched the film and had nice things to say," says Radhakrishnan.

A still from Ullozhukku

Not much preparation was involved for his character Rajiv, he says. "I had met Christo [Tomy], the director of the film earlier. I was aware of the manuscript from the National Film Development Chamber (NFDC) script lab that he and I were part of. So that's when I heard of this film many years ago. Then Christo approached me and I auditioned and got selected," says Radhakrishnan, who was recently in the city to visit his family.

The film turned out to be a great opportunity for him to work with some of the finest actors in the industry. "It was a big experience for me to be working with a legend like Urvashi chechi although I didn't have any scenes with her. Parvathy [Thiruvothu] is another actor who is so good. I've seen her over the years. So it was really nice that I got to work with both of them in the same film," he adds.

Ullozhukku is his third Malayalam film, the last one being Kannur Squad. Radhakrishnan is glad to be part of the much-talked-about Malayalam film industry. "I never thought I would; I'm just taking small steps. Let's see one film at a time and where it goes," says the actor, who hails from Pune but has been spending time in Kochi in the last two years.

He is currently working on his next project, Blindfold, a Malayalam series. "There are a couple of other projects which have not yet been announced, but Blindfold is something that I am working on right now and it will be out on OTT soon," he signs off.

The Unseen Thread

This film festival over the weekend will offer a unique perspective on carbon's role in life on Earth

DESE GOWDA

AMONG the hundreds of elements known to humankind, carbon stands out as both unassuming and extraordinary. With its ability to form stable bonds with a multitude of other elements, it forms the backbone of all known life. As humanity faces an imminent climate catastrophe, it is crucial to understand carbon's pivotal role in our delicate ecosystems.

Since its opening earlier this year, Science Gallery Bengaluru has highlighted the significance of carbon with its flagship exhibition. As the exhibition approaches its conclusion, a film festival provides a platform to delve into carbon's role in ecosystems and more. "The Carbon Film Festival encourages people to think about how carbon in its various forms has been driving the action, so to speak, on the big screen," explains Gayatri Manu, senior programme associate at Science Gallery Bengaluru. "If you look at films like Kaala Patthar, a coal mining drama featuring Amitabh Bachchan, or The Pink Panther, named after the famous character but also referencing a diamond, filmmakers have responded to carbon in various formats. The scope of our exhibition is to understand the climate we live in and carbon's deep connection with the environment."

Partnering with the All Things Environmental Film Festival, the festival brings a curated selection, including documentaries, narrative features and animated works that focus on environmental and climate change themes. The curation process included recommendations by wildlife filmmaker Akanksha Sood Singh and ethnographer Nakul Singh Sawhney. "Akanksha understands biodiversity, while Nakul's work focuses on social issues. This balance is crucial because we are looking at carbon as a material and in terms of the discourse around carbon footprints," she adds. Not Just Roads, a documentary feature by Nitin Bathla and Klearjos Papanicolaou, stands out for its timely relevance. "It explores how these projects redefine our understanding of development and environmental impact," notes Manu.

A still from All That Breathes

Another highlight is the Academy Award-nominated All That Breathes, a documentary about two brothers rehabilitating black kites in Delhi. "I'm also looking forward to the animated films. Animation is often seen as a medium for children, but when animators engage deeply with topics like climate change, it offers a playful and provocative way to address serious issues, making it more approachable," she shares.

(The festival will be held on July 6-7, 10am onwards at the BIC, Domlur)

Learning Point Foundation

Empowering Deprived Youth Through Education

Learning Point Foundation, located near Frazer Town, has been a guiding force for many young individuals who, for various reasons, could not complete their schooling through the traditional education system.

By offering the National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS) courses, the foundation, which is an NGO, ensures that these students receive a flexible yet comprehensive education, tailored to meet their individual needs.

Founded by Sarvath Adil Khan, in the year 2018, on the principles of inclusivity and accessibility, Learning Point Foundation understands the unique challenges faced by school dropouts.

"Many students leave school due to economic hardships, family responsibilities, or health issues. Recognising these barriers, the foundation provides a supportive learning environment that accommodates the diverse circumstances of students, including educating orphans, single mothers, widows, destitute and madrasa students, training them in NIOS 10th standard and 12th standard courses," said Sarvath Adil Khan.

Why join Learning Point Foundation?

- Flexible learning, comprehensive support, experienced educators, affordable education, a social service drive.
- Till date, 403 students have completed 10th standard and 314 students have completed 12th standard under NIOS in the institution.
- Among these students, some opt for further studies whereas the remaining get into jobs.
- The Foundation goes the extra mile to take classes such as personality development, basic English, basic computer knowledge, along with having motivational and emotional health sessions by experts.

Success Stories

Over the years, Learning Point Foundation has transformed the lives of many individuals. The foundation's impact is a testament to the power of education and the importance of providing second chances.

The foundation boasts of an annual pass percentage of over 95 percent in NIOS final exams since its inception. In April 2024, particularly, this percentage has increased to over 97 percent.

Learning Point Foundation has an ambitious plan for the future of training over 1000 students each year along with assisting them in finding suitable jobs.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF APRIL 2024 RESULTS

The Foundation's students have excelled in NIOS April 2024 Examination. In 10th standard, student pass percentage was 97.63% and in 12th standard, it was 97.4%.

"This accomplishment is particularly remarkable considering the diverse challenges many of our students have overcome. From struggling mothers to students with special needs, including one with disability and others managing family pressures, each has shown immense determination. This success is a testament to the dedicated guidance and motivation provided by our trainers, who have played a crucial role in our students' academic journey," said Sarvath Adil Khan.

Support the Movement
The foundation welcomes donors, volunteers and new students to join its NIOS project and make a lasting impression on society through the means of education.

LIFE'S ROLLER-COASTER RIDE

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

LIFE has a strange way of immersing you in the smaller problems so one doesn't concentrate on the bigger ones. I was so wrapped up in my (not) 'maid in heaven' blues that I completely forgot about my twisted back and perennial pain in my muscles. I have been having regular physiotherapy sessions at home and lo and behold! I too have fallen prey to the 'pranic' and reiki' healing techniques! 'Let there be no stone unturned', has been my healing motto. But, all mirth aside, it has been a slightly depressing and worrying journey as I haven't bounced back to 'my-normal', and I have been forced to contend with my body saying 'slow down' or 'this is not possible'. Yes, folks! I have slowly but surely crossed the spring-chicken phase and have firmly crossed into the medieval-stage of my life. I used to be able to use all my four gas burners to cook up a storm simultaneously making the beds and cleaning the house with no problem at all. Now, my spirit is willing but my flesh is weak. Other than cooking occasionally (which I still love doing), I don't want to do all the housework and other such mundane tasks. I get tired and cranky and I feel all my intellectual stimulation stops. More so, I feel I have done it all...now I just don't want to! The only thing is that I have to rein in my 'obsessive-cleanliness-freakish-nature'.

As I said before, life has a way of slapping you in the face when one starts wallowing in the smaller problems. I was deeply saddened to hear of the passing away of my dear friend Priya Mascarenhas' husband Mohan. Priya and Mohan knew my parents and they were the epitome of what old and genteel Bangalore stood for. A much-loved and respected couple Mohan was Priya's friend philosopher and partner for over 57 years. Yet Priya stood stoic and still, dignified even in her grief, and we who are close to her could see how shattered she was in her loss. People think I'm being non-inclusive when I close ranks around what 'old Bangalore' represented. It represented this...grace, loyalty and finesse.

Priya & Mohan Mascarenhas in happier times

Again there is life's lesson. Whereas in one corner the curtains drop on a chapter in your life, in the next, it's curtains up for a young couple, beaming with the joy of starting out on a new adventure. We happily trudged across to Leela Bharitya-City to celebrate with the Razdans and their 'friends-like-family,' a raucous brunch at their signature Indian restaurant Falak. Virender and Sheeba Razdan's daughter Pallak and her spanking 'newly-minted-from-the-US' husband Sam, were there having a great time with all of us. We know the Razdan girls' since they were knee-high. What a great afternoon it was with great food and ambrosia and even better company! 'Pallak' was celebrated at 'Falak'... (In the sky)!

I did manage a quick Chef's Table visit to the newly opened Hyatt-Centric Hotel in Hebbal and was pleasantly surprised with both the ambiance and the expertise of the chef. It's heartening to see namma ooru emerging as the food capital and even more heartening to see newer hotels and restaurants putting in that effort.

Viva to life's roller-coaster ride. The past is a place of reference, not a residence.

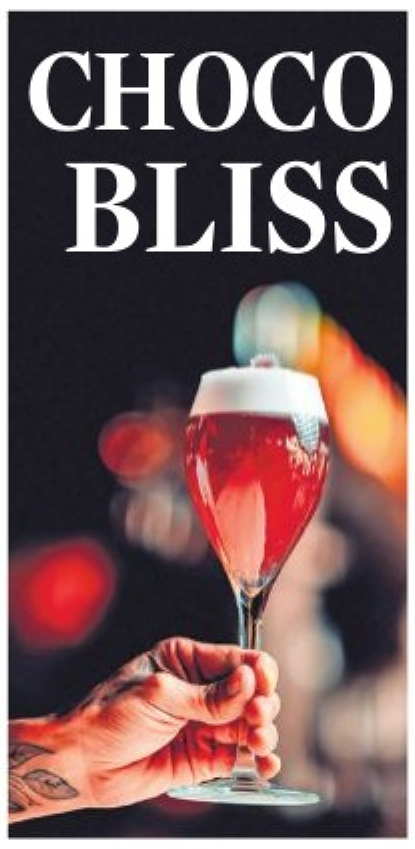
CHOCO BLISS



WHETHER paired with something else, or on its own, chocolate is one of the most sublime indulgences, and one that most people give in to. To celebrate this indulgence, July 7 is marked as World Chocolate Day. While the origins are not very clear, it is supposed to celebrate the introduction of chocolate to Europe in 1550. Before that, chocolate was apparently available in only a few countries in South America and was brought back to Europe by their explorers and invaders.

While chocolate is well known as an ingredient in sweets and desserts, many innovative mixologists and chefs pair this versatile ingredient with alcohol to create some exotic and delicious cocktails and alcohol based desserts. Here are some examples:

A melting pot of contrasting emotions

A SHARADHAA

IN the complex web of life, we encounter diverse souls—loved ones, companions, and strangers alike. The interactions between them, dealing with love, friendship, and unforeseen challenges, have the power to transform our existence in a way that steers it towards unforeseen destinations—sometimes delightful, other times harrowing. And with Bisi Bisi Ice Cream, as its title suggests, Arvind Sastry offers us a narrative that tries to satiate the palate for the hot and cold with an exploration of purpose and aspiration.

The plot revolves around a mysterious woman who enters the life of a depressed, heartbroken, lovelorn, and ailing cab driver (Aravind Iyer), bringing with him a whirlwind of emotions and adventures. She becomes both a cure for his miseries and a catalyst for many escapades. Siri Ravikumar plays a high-end escort with no specific name, adding an enigmatic charm to her character. Raghava, instantly in love but unaware of her profession as one of Manto's prostitutes, faces a confrontation with Manto (Gopal Krishna Deshpande) that impacts his life. The plot interlaces the exploits and mishaps of these characters, presenting a distinctive view of their interconnected lives. Is it a portrayal of an urban lifestyle? Maybe not for the average person, but it offers a deeper look into a concealed world.

Arvind Sastry showcases his adeptness at navigating complex characters and intricate narratives. Despite his potential as a screenwriter and editor, however, the simplistic screenplay suffers from a lack of coherence, and its fusion of dark comedy with other genres falls short. The film's pace is slow, only gaining momentum in parts and towards the climax, which risks testing audiences' patience. A shift into thriller territory also fails to fully captivate. However, the director's attempt to bring the seemingly monotonous life of a cab driver to the screen shines a spotlight on an otherwise overlooked existence while capturing the character's daily struggles, fleeting joys, and sorrows with an empathetic lens.

BISI BISI ICE CREAM
Director: Arvind Sastry
Cast: Aravind Iyer, Siri Ravikumar, and Gopalkrishna Deshpande

RATING 2.5/5

Aravind Iyer's performance encapsulates the essence of a lonely, heartbroken cab driver searching for happiness amidst his struggles. His portrayal of a man weighed down by depression and aimlessness is authentic, capturing every nuance of the character's despair. The actor's subtle gestures convey a depth of emotion that connects powerfully on screen.

Siri Ravikumar, despite her limited screen time, leaves an impressive impact; she understands her role deeply, delivering a nuanced performance as well as conveying much with minimal dialogue and screen presence. Together, the performances of Aravind and Siri elevate the film, drawing the audience into their intertwined lives and emotional journeys. Further, Gopal Krishna Deshpande, known for his versatility and willingness to experiment with varied roles, takes on the character of Manto, a self-made businessman and high-profile pimp. While his talent allows him to navigate complex characters, this particular role might be a stretch for him. Despite his commendable effort to bring dedication and skill to the performance, the audience might find it challenging to connect with the character and might remain unconvinced by his portrayal.

The music by Nakul Abhyankar attempts to complement the emotional undertones of the film but sometimes falls short of being in sync with the narrative. Enosh Olivera's cinematography captures the essence of the character's journey, searching for light amidst darkness. Sound plays a crucial role in the film, with Shreyank Nanjappa's mixing and Suresh Bagali's recording bringing the scenes to life, adding a layer of realism to the narrative.

Bisi Bisi Ice Cream makes an earnest effort to explore the depth of human emotions and the complexities of urban life. Arvind Sastry gives a rare glimpse into those people who may seem simple but are entangled in the complexities of life, illustrating that beneath the surface of every life, however ordinary it may seem, lies a story waiting to be told.

The film's technical crew includes Nobin Paul handling the music and Jaybin P Jacob as the cinematographer.

KAAGADA EVOKES OLD-SCHOOL TEENAGE ROMANCE

KAAGADA
Director: Ranjith Kumar Gowda
Cast: Adithya, Ankita Jayaram, Neha Patil, and Raja Balawadi

A SHARADHAA

SET against a rural backdrop in 2005, a period where love mostly blooms through letters, the plot of Kaagada (which means letter in Kannada) bridges the gap between two teenagers from Hindu and Muslim communities. Ranjith Kumar Gowda's film tells the tale of Shivu (Adithya) and Ayesha (Ankita Jayaram), college students who navigate love amidst societal divides. Will their innocent romance endure? Watch Kaagada to uncover their fate.

The film, which celebrates the simplicity of love, also deals with political and ego clashes, urging humanity's preservation. Beyond its romantic core, Kaagada also gets into the complexities of societal and religious tensions between Bairavakotte and Kemapanahalli, bravely tackling sensitive issues and urging reflection on religion's true essence amidst misunderstandings. While religions advocate compassion and universal brotherhood, Kaagada highlights the need for mindset shifts to preserve these core values. With the director also serving as the writer of the film's story, screenplay, and dialogues, he has gone somewhere with the flow, bordering on the sensitivity of such inter-religious subjects. Performances in Kaagada are refreshing, with new faces Aditya and Ankita Jayaram delivering earnest portrayals of their characters. Raja Balawadi and Neha Patil are the two notable faces in the ensemble, which also includes college friends.

To conclude, Kaagada is a film with a straightforward storyline, which explores love and societal harmony, and genuine performances. The film treads a familiar path but can still be considered a one-time viewing experience, as it evokes a nostalgic charm reminiscent of old-school romance where games like FLAMES measured love.
